VETO DEFEATED BY BIG MARGIN IN FINAL COUNT

Treasury Prepares to Issue "Baby" Bonds as Long Contest Reaches End

Application Blanks to Be Available to Soldiers at District Offices

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Congress tossed aside a presidential veto today, enacted the $2,237,000,000 soldiers bonus measure and tossed the problem of how and where to get the money to pay the veterans in the lap of the administration.

The senate vote of 76 to 19 to over-ride the veto smashed the last rampart in a 15-year battle for payment of the bonus.

Veterans organizations, which led the campaign for immediate payment of the bonus originally due in 1945, saw the senate follow the pace set by the house last Friday when it over-ruled President Roosevelt's six-paragraph, handwritten veto message. The senate action made the bonus a law. Payment will be made probably next June in "baby" bonds.

Inflation Fight Seen

A congressional fight for inflation to pay the huge sum now due 3,518,000 veterans in all parts of the United States was believed certain. Administration sources, however, have indicated that additional taxation would be necessary to meet the bonus payments.

In this connection, it was pointed out that this is a campaign year and that political leaders hesitate to offer proposals for new taxation at present. At the same time, the administration experts were known to be working on new tax proposals necessitated by various readjustments in the 1936 budget since the opening of congress.

The bonus passage removed one of the most troublesome political issues of the post-war period, although the question of providing the money remains to be settled.

Paid in "Baby" Bonds

Payment, the bill provided, will be made in "baby" bonds which can be cashed or held as an investment.

It was understood the treasury department had begun preparation for printing the bonds, in $50 denominations, but an immense amount of detail work still is necessary. The bonds will be dated June 15, so that veterans must wait five months for their cash.

A veteran receiving bonds for his adjusted service certificate will be able to cash them or hold them for nine years, receiving three per cent interest.

The amount of bonds and cash the veteran will receive will correspond to the 1945 or full maturity value of his certificate, less whatever he has borrowed on it and less interest after Sept. 30, 1931. The bonds will be non-negotiable and cannot be attached for debts or other obligations.

The veterans administration said that application blanks were ready and, if necessary could be mailed out tomorrow. Veterans should apply to their district offices for these blanks, it was said.

Scioto Valley Farmers Urge State Income Tax

Resolution to Be Sent Senators, Representative Asking Action to Bar Further Real Tax; Noecker Elected

Farmers attending the Scioto Valley institute, Ashville, adopted a resolution Saturday afternoon urging the state senators and county representative of this district to propose and support an income tax which would act as a bar against increases in real estate taxes.

The tax, they explained, would aid in taking care of expenses of government and might also bring about a reduction in the state sales tax.

Resolutions were also adopted for an exhibition of farm and home products at the 1937 institute and sessions for junior farmers. The exhibitions would include adult and junior groups with premium lists offered for each.

The new officers elected are: Howard Noecker, president; Ira Scothorn, vice president; Mary Kuhlwein, secretary; Archie Peters, treasurer, and Mrs. Martin Cromley, hostess. Members of the executive committee are: Lewis Hay, Mrs. Homer Reber, Paul Peters, Mrs. Henry Snyder and Mrs. William Duval.

All other county schools were reported open. They were closed last Wednesday because of drifted roads.

By United Press

Biting Arctic winds howled down from the frozen wastes of western Canada today reviving a record-breaking cold wave in all the territory east of the Rocky mountains. Light snow in the east presaged a new blizzard.

Sub-zero temperatures prevailed for the sixth successive day in the middle west. It was the most extensive cold wave since 1912. Even the deep south, with the exception of southern Florida, shivered in freezing temperatures.

Cold to Continue

The severe cold will continue at least through Wednesday, forecasters said. Many rural schools will remain closed until more normal temperatures return.

Deaths attributed to the cold throughout the nation mounted to more than 175. Hundreds of cases of frostbite were treated at hospitals.

Derailing of five cars of a passenger train at Sulphur Springs, Ia., and a 3-car elevated train in Chicago was blamed on rails cracking in the intense cold. No one was injured in the Iowa wreck but a score of persons received first aid treatment after the elevated cars jumped the tracks. Four were hospitalized.

The piercing northwest wind added to the discomfort in nearly all sections of the country east to the Atlantic seaboard.

Sled Runner Pierces Jaw Of Villager

Pulling out a cold steel sled runner that gouged in his mouth and out his right cheek was the gruesome operation Robert Stevens, 14, gritty Williamsport high school student had to perform on himself Saturday afternoon.

The accident occurred on the village hill on Route 22, while Robert and a group of other youths were coasting toward the Deercreek bridge. Robert was following Junior Whiteside, 14, down the grade when Junior's sled overturned. The sled runner cut through the Stevens boys' lip on the left side of his face, cut his tongue and went through his right cheek at an angle that made it protrude out near his ear. No teeth were broken.

Although he was unable to say much because of the number of stitches in his mouth he told Dr. G. D. Sheets he "just braced himself, put both hands on the sled and pulled."

William Johnson, Williamsport youth, brought Robert to Berger hospital where he was treated by Dr. Sheets and discharged. Stitches were taken in his lip, tongue and on both the inside and outside of his cheek. He took no anesthetic.

He is the son of Mrs. Gladys Stevens.

Registration, inspection of agriculture buildings and barns at the university, and an illustrated lecture on European agriculture were on the program for the opening day.

Tuesday is farm bureau day, and will be featured by an address on rural electrification by Congressman John E. Rankin of Mississippi, an advocate of the Tennessee Valley Project of the federal government.

Murray D. Lincoln, secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau, will lead a discussion on cooperative development of rural electrification preceding the address of Rankin.

CAROL 'SNUBBED' AS HE GOES TO KING'S FUNERAL

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(UP)—King Carol of Roumania has shocked royal circles again by his open devotion to Mme. Magda Lupescu, the sweetheart for whose love he once renounced his right to the throne.

Carol took Mme. Lupescu with him when he left for London to attend the funeral of King George, his cousin. She stayed in Paris, awaiting him there.

Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania refused to accompany her son on his royal train, and it is now announced that a cold will make it impossible for her to attend the funeral. King George was her first cousin.

While here, Carol is staying, as King Edward's guest, at Lady Granard's residence. This house is used to entertain royal guests when Buckingham palace is overcrowded. However, room has been found in the palace for other kings, for the Crown Prince of Italy and for Prince Friedrich of Prussia and Prince Ernest August of Hanover.

From this it may be deduced that the British royal family has not forgiven Carol for divorcing Princess Helen of Greece.

NEW LEXINGTON MAN TO ASSUME FEDERAL BENCH

Name of 11th District Congressman Given to Senate at Noon Today

CONFIRMATION CERTAIN

Appointment Opens Way for Spirited Primary Race in Five Counties

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—President Roosevelt today sent the name of Congressman Mell G. Underwood of New Lexington, O. to the senate for confirmation as federal judge in the southern Ohio district to fill the vacancy left by the death of Benson W. Hough.

Confirmation is believed only a matter of form, since Underwood carries the support of the department of justice and of Ohio's senators, Robert J. Bulkley and A. Vic Donahey.

It has been rumored in the last week that Underwood would be nominated by the president.

Serving Seventh Term

The Democratic congressman is serving his seventh consecutive term in congress from the 11th Ohio district which includes Ross, Pickaway, Fairfield, Hocking and his own, Perry-co.

Nomination of Mell Underwood for the federal judgeship leaves the way open for one of the hottest congressional primary contests in many years.

Several candidates have already entered the race, believing that Mr. Underwood would receive Judge Hough's toga. Others were waiting until the New Lexington man actually had the job. Every county in the district, it is believed, will have at least one person in the race.

Dr. Lantz Enters

No sooner had Mr. Underwood's nomination become known today than Dr. James M. Lantz of Lancaster made his formal announcement for the Democratic nomination for congress. Dr. Lantz, president of the Lancaster board of education, was runner-up to Underwood two years ago in the field of six candidates.

AIDES TO F. D. R. HIT SMITH TALK AS REPUDIATION

Ickes, Barkley Refer to Record; Sen. Robinson to Answer Tuesday Night

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(UP)—New Dealers brought out "the record" today, quoting former President Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith, in reply to the latter's charges of "Socialism."

Hoover was quoted as accusing Smith of "state socialism" in the 1928 presidential campaign, and the "happy warrior" as telling a senate committee in 1933 that he favored a "public works dictator and shelving the constitution."

Smith's speech, one of the most caustic assaults yet made on the New Deal, rocked the capital as no other political speech has in years, he was wildly applauded by the 2,500 persons at the Liberty League dinner Saturday night.

Republican Charged

First to reply—and "point to the records"—were Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., and Donald R. Richberg, former head of NRA. They accused Smith of repudiating the policies he advocated in 1928.

Sen. Joseph T. Robinson, D., Ark., Smith's running mate in the 1928 presidential campaign, will make the administration's formal reply to Smith in a 30-minute radio address over a nation-wide hookup tomorrow night.

Reaction to Smith's speech was mixed in the capital. New Deal Democrats generally were critical. Republicans applauded. Both were puzzled as to his campaign intentions.

His much-heralded speech was more caustic than had been expected, and his repudiation of the New Deal more emphatic than political observers had anticipated. But he left his future course in doubt.

Political Washington speculated whether Smith intends actively to campaign against the New Deal ticket or sanction a Jeffersonian or constitutional Democratic national convention to nominate an opposition ticket.

His statement that he was born in the Democratic party and expected to die in it appeared to dispose of any possibility that he would campaign for a Republican presidential nominee or lead a coalition ticket of any kind.

Democratic leaders generally wanted to take their cue from Robinson's "official" reply. Robinson, meanwhile, declined to comment, locking himself in his office and preparing his speech.

Norris is Caustic

Sen. George W. Norris, R., Neb., who supported Smith in 1928 and has been friendly toward many New Deal measures, belittled the New Yorker's speech as offering nothing new and representing the "suppressed feeling of a bad loser." The peroration, he said, "was that of a demagogue."

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., one of Smith's western managers in 1928, said "it was the speech of a great man gone wrong," and added that it was "the masters of corporate wealth" that he made it.

While most New Deal leaders remained silent, some others were stung into sharp reply. Donald R. Richberg, former head of NRA, joined Melvin D. Hildreth, executive secretary of the National Progressive league, in a statement.

The two adopted the customary Smith tactics of "taking a look at the record"—Smith's record this time.

Ohio Democrats in Washington Making "Peace"

AFTER leading a "peace delegation" to Washington to arrange a harmony program between the erstwhile at-odds Democratic state and national administrations, Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio promenades along Capitol Hill with two other "united Ohio" officials, Senator

TWO INSTITUTES START SESSIONS; SPEAKERS LISTED

Institutes in Salt Creek and Commercial Point, the last two on the county schedule, opened Monday for two-day sessions.

Changes in the principal speakers for both programs were announced shortly before noon.

E. O. Skinner, former state director of education, notified officials he would be unable to attend the meeting. P. E. Grubb of Johnstown, a Master farmer and a member of the American Society of Agriculture Engineers, was appointed to replace Mr. Skinner. Mr. Grubb is a member of the 40-Bushel Wheat club and a Farm Bureau director. In addition to conducting a dairy, raising grain and livestock he plants about 75 acres of potatoes each year.

Mrs. C. R. Milnor of Pickerington, who attended all institutes last week was scheduled to speak at Commercial Point today but could not attend Tuesday's sessions. Mrs. Lottie M. Randolph of New Lexington, Rt. 1, was appointed to take her place. Mrs. Randolph, the first 4-H club leader in Perry-co, has served on the home economics committee of the Ohio State Grange, and is supervisor of the young People's department of religious education in Perry-co.

Three officers of the Tarlton Farmers' Institute were re-elected at the closing session Saturday afternoon. They are: O. S. Mowery, president; W. E. Luckhart, vice president, and G. F. Shride, treasurer. D. W. Macklin was elected secretary and Miss Gift Macklin, hostess.

Members of the executive committee are Nellie F. Mowery, J. E. Kettelman and Myrtle Reichelderfer.

Twenty amateurs took part in the imitation "Major Bowes" amateur program presented in the Community hall Saturday night as the closing feature of the institute. Marion Sensenbrenner, Circleville, soloist, took first prize; Miss Anna Pontius, Tarlton, reader, was awarded second prize, and the Laurelville Cuckoos, a string band, the third prize. All were awarded storage batteries donated by a well-known manufacturer. Mr. Mowery acted as "Major Bowes."

Officials reported an exceptionally large crowd attended the institute sessions considering the severe weather and conditions of the roads in the district.

TWO IN JAIL AFTER W. MAIN-ST "BRAWL"

Otto Gluth, this city, and Hattie Brown, 17-year-old Washington-twp girl, spent Sunday and Monday in the city jail pending charges as the result of a "brawl" in a W. Main-st rooming house early Sunday.

At noon Monday charges had not been filed.

The Brown girl was treated in Berger hospital at 3:25 a. m. Sunday for cuts and bruises allegedly inflicted by Gluth after the girl struck him on the head with a beer bottle. It was reported Joe Morris, John McCrady, and John Porter pulled Gluth from the girl after she struck him.

Police were reluctant to discuss the circumstances surrounding the arrests.

By mild ripe tobacco we mean just this—

FIRST—ripened in the sunshine... and picked leaf by leaf from the right part of the stalk when fully ripe.

THEN—each day's picking cured right by the farmer... at the right time and in the right way... no "splotching" or brittleness, but every leaf of good color and flavor.

FINALLY—bought in the open market... re-dried for storage... then packed in wooden hogsheads to age and mellow for two years or more until free from harshness and bitterness.

That's what we mean by mild, ripe tobacco. And that's the kind of tobacco we use to give Chesterfields their milder, better taste.

THE BEAUTIFUL
SNOW is a lovely thing in the country, if one can look out of the window from a cosily warm room and observe the crystals piling on top of one another to the greater glory of the landscape. Even in the city one can extract an ethical delight from the process.

Not, however, if one has to go out in it. Snow leads inevitably to slush, and one has suspicions of the credibility of the slush fancier. Even ice, if it covers the street to the downfall of the unwary, does not bear the same connotation as it does when tinkling in a glass, the temperature in the 90s. To the city dweller snow is just as much an unmitigated nuisance as it is if one lives in the country and has to get about. Let us be honest about it. Theoretically we all love the snow in the abstract; in the concrete—and when it solidifies into what we painfully remove from our sidewalks, concrete is right—let us not deceive ourselves. Cities, especially, do not mix well with snow. Civilization, or what we call civilization in our metropolitan pride, has a way of going on, though in the going it encounters troubles. Especially if one drives a car. So the conflict between civilization and dear old Nature is bitter.

This is only January, so there is no use in looking forward to spring. There will be such a thing—there always has been. But winter is here now and for six weeks, at least, there will be plenty more of it. We will endure it as we must, but it might be as well if no further reference is made to beautiful snow. Humanity can bear a lot, but there comes a time.....

The next time we read a story about the potential dangerousness of one Joe Louis' unknown opponents our comment will be summed up in one brief word. The word is "Nuts."

Among the more virulent critics of Old Doc Townsend's scheme are the professional politicians who go along year after year promising the taxpayers an economical government.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Rooseveltian leadership, it is rumored, practically has abandoned hope of winning business support of its presidential candidate at the coming election, but is concentrating upon the task of capturing almost the solid vote of the commonest of the common people.

Business is improving but business men don't seem to thank the administration for it. Contrariwise, the more it improves, the more, apparently, they resent government interference with their efforts to make the most of the improvement. The White House, from all accounts, has about arrived at the conclusion that folk like the members of the American Liberty league, the United States Chamber of commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers are irreconcilable in their attitude toward New Deal policies.

But, after all, agriculture and the industrial masses are in a vast majority over the select element of the voters. If President Roosevelt can consolidate such a bulk of the electorate under his banner, he can do without the comparative for intransigents.

HOWE ON JOB AGAIN

This line of reasoning is said to be, not so much Democratic National Chairman (and Postmaster General) James A. Farley's as Colonel Louis McHenry Howe's.
The colonel, chief White House secretary and most trusted presidential adviser, has sufficiently recovered from his illness of the last few months to be devoting an hour or two a day to 1936 campaign strategy.
The story is that he thinks Farley has bungled.
It is a fact that Farley made

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

NEW BRITISH KING HATES DICTATORS; LIKELY TO CHANGE FOREIGN POLICY

WASHINGTON—Now that the Prince of Wales has become King of England keep an eye on British foreign policy. The new King is a sincere believer in democracy, hates dictatorships, and has a personal dislike for Mussolini. (He does not know Hitler personally.) Also he is a dynamic individual, likely to impress his views upon the British Cabinet.... The nationwide hook-up which the Columbia Broadcasting System gave Al Smith's Liberty League harangue cost the League not a cent. Without Columbia's generosity, the charge would have been $15,235.25.... Pittsburgh's industrious Representative Henry Ellenbogen is an unquenchable optimist. He has introduced a bill to create a commission to negotiate payment of the defaulted war debts.... The United Mine Workers, one of the most liberal affiliates of the American Federation of Labor, will hold its annual convention this week in Constitution Hall, Washington, owned by swank, conservative Daughters of the American Revolution. Around 2,000 miner delegates will attend, and one of the important questions to be acted upon is a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment curbing the power of the Supreme Court.

TALMADGE PRESS-AGENT

Washington publicity man for Governor Gene Talmadge, Georgia's arch-Roosevelt foe, is Sam Jones, formerly a press adviser of the Republican National Committee. The Committee denies emphatically that the Republicans have any connection with Jones' current activities.... The Social Security Board is making a quiet investigation of reports that hotels and restaurants in many cities are requiring waiters to report the amount of tips they collect. Such information is not required by the Social Security Act, and the Board wants to know the reason for the order.... More than one-fifth of the members of Congress, including Speaker Joe Byrns, Vice President Jack Garner and other leaders, omit birth dates in their personal biographies in the Congressional Directory.... Despite the bitter warring by utilities against the Holding Company Act, a large number of them have notified the Securities and Exchange Commission of plans to simplify their capital structures. Among those instituting such reforms are the giant Electric Bond & Share, New Jersey Public Service, Cities Service, the Bylesby group, International Paper and Power, and Niagara Hudson, a Morgan company.

POWER BEHIND HIM

Now, Lewis, as head of the United Mine Workers, might reasonably be expected to hold the voting balance of power in Pennsylvania and West Virginia; to be strong in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Iowa, Kansas and western Maryland; to weigh in Colorado and Montana, which are mining states. Moreover he is the apostle of industrial unionism—not only the miners; the automobile workers, the rubber workers, the radio workers, the cement workers, in fact, all hither to unorganized trades. The masses!

He should catch, administrationists reckon, the Socialist vote.

He's in conflict with the American Federation of Labor certainly. But the A. F. of L. an alliance of crafts, has a membership of approximately 4,000,000. Lewis looks toward an alliance of nearly 40,000,000.

And there is nothing intrinsically antagonistic between his program and the farmers.

GARNER'S "HEALTH"

But what to do with Garner? The administration would like to have him back in the house of representatives. Of course, he would insist on being speaker. Speaker Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee naturally wouldn't agree to give place to him. If Garner waives his future vice presidential chances, the assumption is that it will be "on account of his health." No one is rash enough to believe that, if his health fails, it will be otherwise than in favor of something else pretty good. Garner is a problem to be reckoned with at the next Democratic national convention.

MURDER UPSTAIRS
By ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 55
"WHAT DO the police mean, Alice?" Lucy whispered, huskily, when Larrabee announced she would have to be searched.
"They think, Lucy, that you knocked on Grace's door because you wanted to kill her." I know my answer was brutal, but the scream had unnerved me, too. "I know you haven't a knife or a gun on you, but they don't know that. I'll have to search you anyway." She only had on her nightgown under her bathrobe, and slippers on her feet, so it was easy. There was nothing hung about her neck in the pockets of her bathrobe except a handkerchief, and nothing in her loose slippers.
"You don't believe—"
"Of course I don't. I know you came to Grace's room merely to ask her to awaken you early in the morning. If she hadn't gone to bed, and if she had, you planned to slip the note under the door. I know Lucy, you don't have to doubt me. It's unfortunate that Grace had to scream, but she was afraid, I suppose. I might have done the same thing, scream I mean, if someone knocked on my door just as I was going to sleep."
"You'll explain to Mr. Larrabee?"
"I'll explain, but it won't do any good. You shouldn't have come up here, Lucy. You should have come to me, and I would have told Grace. With Larrabee around suspecting everybody—"
There was a knock at the door that interrupted me, and Larrabee came in.
"Finished?"
"Yes, and of course I found nothing except a handkerchief." He merely grunted and called Ross into the room.
"Not that I don't trust Mrs. Penny, Ross—I do—but she's peculiar in some ways. I want you to search this room thoroughly."
Ross nodded, and I wasn't surprised. I had expected that. I put my arm about Lucy and took her downstairs. Larrabee followed us and was waiting for me when I came out of Lucy's room.
"What now?" I asked.
"If you'll come down to the sitting room, please."
The confusion that Grace's scream had caused had subsided. The doors were closed in the corridors and the house was quiet once more. An officer was standing near Lucy's door on the second floor, and another was stationed at the third floor door to the back stairs.
I went down into the sitting room alone, and when Larrabee joined me 10 minutes later, he said that nothing had been found in my room.
"Merely a matter of precaution, Mrs. Penny."
"I understand only too well, Lucy. I don't kill Andrew Darlen nor Della Randall, and the sooner you make your mind up to that, the sooner you'll find the murderer." I was angry, but when I calmed down a little I realized that Larrabee was only doing his duty. He suspected everybody, and Lucy had done something suspicious, innocently.
"Perhaps you can tell me, then, who did murder Darlen and Della," was his retort.
"I can—"
"You can?"
"Yes, I can. The person who bolted the front door after Mr. Withers left the house at midnight. Monday night murdered Mr. Darlen and Della Randall."
Larrabee laughed—much, too loudly for the quiet of the house, for the time of the night, and for the condition of my nerves.
If he hadn't laughed at me, I might have told him then and there what I knew, but his laugh hurt my pride, so I didn't tell him anything. Instead I closed up like a clam and walked stiffly to the door. I was opening it when he spoke again.
"Dr. Rudemar is coming to see me tomorrow afternoon at 4." There was a slight lift to his left eyebrow and a queer smile playing on his lips. That settled me. I wouldn't tell him. He was taunting me and after what I'd been through I wasn't going to be taunted. Besides, for all I knew, I had no proof, not a shred of it. Mere suspicion wouldn't count in court. But if, with my suspicions, I could get something else—some definite proof!
When I reached my room, accompanied by Sergeant Ross right to my door, I locked myself in and looked under the bed and in my closet as well as in the old walnut trunk and chest that had been in my family for generations. The chest is a big one, and would hold a strong, husky man. I was taking no chances.
Then I sat down with a paper and pencil and thought for an hour. While I was thinking, my pencil was making marks on the paper. Some way I had to get proof. I made anagrams out of the word "proof" wrote it in French, Italian and German on that paper and other papers I used up during the hour. I drew pictures around it like a schoolgirl trying to solve a geometric problem.

DIET AND HEALTH

Changes Occur in Bones In One Type Arthritis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
THE KIND of arthritis that gets worse in the winter, is in almost all instances, associated with an overgrowth of bone. These spots of overgrowth are tremendously sensitive to changes of temperature and barometric changes, which result in congestion and swelling around the bony enlargements. This swelling impinges upon the delicate nerves around the joints and results in exquisite agony. The treatment of this form of arthritis must take into account the fact that permanent changes have occurred in the bones. These changes can't be undone. It is probable that focal infections cause the overgrowth of bone, and removal of these foci will stop a continuance of the process, but it would be wrong to suppose that removal of foci of infection will cause the disease to disappear, and hopes based upon any such theory are false.
This form of arthritis occurs usually after middle age, and the most hopeful thing that can be said about it is that as time goes on the condition improves and becomes stationary; the pain disappears, which most patients find the most important element in the case; there remains a permanent fixation of the joint so that it loses its movability, but in people past middle age this is not nearly so important or so much of a disability as it would be in younger people.
EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of the paper. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

AN OBLIGATORY PSYCHIC
DOUBTLESS psychic bids have been dreadfully overworked. Two of the best former pairs in the country have become so addicted to overworked psychic bids that within a week I heard one of the six best players in the country refer to them as "push overs", which I fear is true, although both pairs would deny such statement with indignation. If ever an opening bid may be called obligatory, it was so in a duplicate game last week. The hand is shown below.

Answers to Foregoing Questions
1. Louis XVI, of France.
2. James Hamilton Lewis.
3. The great charter of English personal and political liberty, obtained from King John by the barons in 1215.
I think that an opening 2-Diamonds, by North, is an ideal bid, as the hand looks slummy, provided diamonds are not led immediately. After that opening call, bidding should go something as follows: South, 2-Hearts; North, 3-Clubs; South, 3-Spades; North, 4-Clubs; South, 4-Hearts, to show great length; North, 6-Hearts.
I think that the opening lead was the K of spades in nearly every case where the opening bid was 2-Diamonds, giving an easy grand slam. One table made a grand slam at clubs, but only 5-Clubs was bid. Had a small slam at clubs been bid, with the introductory diamond psychic call, the opening lead surely would have been the Ace of diamonds, holding declarer to 5-odd. Unless North made an opening call of a club game it is difficult to see how he ever played the hand at a minor suit make.

Country Club Scene Of Lovely Party Saturday

One of the largest and most charming parties in society circles during the winter season was the luncheon bridge at which Mrs. G. D. Phillips, N. Court-st., was hostess Saturday at the Pick-away Country club.

Marian Martin Pattern

PATTERN 9712

You can make it one way—or three—this versatile, softly styled frock which looks as well with softly puffed sleeves as with short flared ones, or nothing more than a demure cap atop a pair of pretty shoulders. It's a frock you'll love to slip into for informal entertaining, or for wearing to teas, card parties and such where you want to look your loveliest. A very easy frock to make, too, and a pattern that bears repetition from time to time when you chance upon a particularly choice bit of fabric. You'll find the scalloped yoke an especially smooth-fitting one, and decidedly flattering. It's nice in a colorful monotone crepe or dark ground print for wear now—a lighter print for wear later. Complete. Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9712 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric.

Miss Ethel Cleo Kern, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kern of Jackson-twp, and Mr. Herman Lyle Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Davis, W. Franklin-st, this city, exchanged nuptial vows Sunday evening at 8:30 o'clock.

The wedding was informal at the newly furnished home of the couple in Monroe-twp with only members of the immediate families and a few close friends present.

Rev. George L. Troutman, junior pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, read the ceremony in the living room of the home before an improvised altar of pink carnations and white buddleia and tall white tapers in crystal holders.

They were unattended. The bride was attractive in a dress of aquamarine with which she wore white accessories and a shoulder corsage of white carnations and camellia.

A reception followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Davis is a graduate of Jackson-twp high school and Mr. Davis graduated from Muhlenberg-twp high school and is engaged in farming.

Florida Trips Delayed

Three parties who were to leave by motor over the week-end for a stay in Miami, Fla., postponed their trips a couple of days because of the cold weather.

Mrs. Myrtle Drake of Van Wert, her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Gilliland and Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Pinckney-st, were to leave Saturday as were Misses Eleanor and Margie Snyder, Pinckney-st. They postponed their trip until today leaving this morning.

Mrs. H. B. Given and daughter, Miss Virginia, E. Main-st, had also planned to leave Sunday but have postponed their trip and will start their journey in a few days depending on the weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Huston and family, N. Court-st, visited Sunday with Mrs. Huston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Kramer, of Columbus.

Misses Harriet and Mary Marfield, E. Main-st, returned Sunday from an extended visit in the East, where they were guests of their sister, Mrs. Frank Dundore, of Paoli, Pa. Mrs. Dundore returned yesterday to Circleville with her sister for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reichelderfer, Jackson-twp, visited over the week-end with Mrs. C. F. Reichelderfer of Columbus. Additional dinner guests at the Reichelderfer home Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Pickens and son, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Reichelderfer.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kline of Terre Haute, Ind. came Friday to attend the funeral Sunday of Mrs. Kline's sister, Mrs. Peter Folliod. They are remaining for a few days' visit with Mrs. Kline's brother and sister-in-law.

No prediction of prohibition's imminent return having been seen for several weeks, perhaps it is true that former dry racketeers are now at work signing up members for the Townsend Plan.

SHOCK OF CRASH KILLS TRAINMAN

Conductor on Wabash, Fatal to Family, is Dead

DETROIT, Jan. 27—(UP)—Frank S. Bray, 64-year-old conductor for the Wabash railroad, died of a heart ailment at his home here yesterday, just two days after his train had killed 11 persons in an accident near Graceland, Ind.

Bray had been confined to his bed in his home since his arrival here following the accident which took the lives of a father, mother, and their nine children. Dr. Clyde R. Van Gundy, attending physician, said that the shock of the accident led to Bray's death.

Bray was born in Ypsilanti, Mich., and came to Detroit 44 years ago to enter the services of the Wabash railroad.

The railroading accident took the lives of Marion McBride, 43-year-old WPA worker, his wife Susan, 40, and their children, Clara, 14; Marion, Jr., 12; Mary, 10; Arthur, 8; Virginia, 6; Phyllis, 5; Robert, 3, Richard and Ramona, 17-months-old twins.

COMPROMISE HEARING ON GAS RATE SOUGHT

LIMA, Jan. 27—(UP)—An effort to have the Ohio Public Utilities commission schedule a compromise hearing on the 1933 rate ordinance controversy between the city of Lima and the West Ohio Gas Company will be made this week by City Solicitor Charles W. Long. Long announced today he would go to Columbus to attempt to arrange the hearing. Litigation of the 1928 rate ordinance was stopped recently when the West Ohio announced it would refund $236,000 to 10,000 Lima consumers.

DEATHS ACCIDENTAL

TROY, Jan. 27—(UP)—Cecil Marshall, Miami-co coroner, today gave a verdict of accidental death in connection with the deaths of Emma Waski, 30, and Robert Murray, 34, Springfield, who were killed in an automobile accident here yesterday. Two other persons, William Bolter, 22, Troy, and Ruth Grubbs, 27, Springfield, were injured.

Letters to Editor

As a resident of E. High-st and a tax-payer I feel that I have a perfect right to voice my opinion regarding the snow that is being hauled and dumped in mountains on the north side of the street.

The old cemetery is bad enough to contend with day after day, and year after year with no care except once a year—Decoration Day—and then just half cleaned.

We deserve and demand a little consideration, and would suggest to the party or parties responsible for same to dump it in front of their own homes or on Court or Main-st. Let's hear from other home-owners on E. High-st.

CHEESE, MUSHROOMS TAKE PLACE OF MEAT

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint

Cheese Souffle with Mushrooms
Baked Potatoes
Buttered Broccoli
Carrot-Raisin Salad
Black Walnut Rolls
Coffee

This cheese souffle with mushrooms helps you to get away from the ever-present problem of serving a tasty meatless meal. Mushrooms creamed and served over toast make another good dish to take the place of meat. Try serving these black walnut rolls warm, for dessert sometime.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Cheese Souffle with Mushrooms—Three-fourths cup mushrooms, two tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour, one-half cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, dash paprika, one-half cup grated American cheese, two tablespoons chopped parsley, three eggs. Chop mushrooms and saute in butter. Blend in flour and add milk slowly, stirring it in carefully. Add seasonings and cook, stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. Add cheese and parsley and stir until cheese is melted. Remove from fire, add egg yolks and cool. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased baking dish, bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, from 35 to 40 minutes until firm.

Black Walnut Rolls—Two cakes compressed yeast, one cup milk, scalded, cooled to lukewarm; four and three-fourths cups bread flour, one-fourth cup sugar, two eggs or four yolks, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup butter, one teaspoon cinnamon, six tablespoons butter for pan bottom, one cup black walnut meats, two cups brown sugar. Crumble yeast into a bowl, slowly add milk, stir to dissolve yeast and add sugar, beaten eggs, salt and flour (sifted) to milk mixture. Add softened butter and mix thoroughly. Knead on well floured board into a smooth dough. Place in a greased bowl.

Amos Proves His Ability As Andy Attends Party

Member of Team Takes All Parts; Question of Courtroom Broadcasts Hit in St. Paul; President is Scheduled

Versatility has long been the key-word of the radio stars known as Amos 'n Andy. Nearly everyone knows that both men take all the parts in their ever-popular program, but few know that Amos carried on the entire show on January 14 while Andy was in Peoria, Ill., attending a surprise birthday party for his father.

Amos did a mighty good job of jumping from his own part to that of the Kingfish and Brother Crawford then back again. How he kept mixing them is a mystery.

When the Kingfish asked for Andy, Amos replied, "He's delivering errands, he'll be back soon."

Radio developments are largely American but one innovation of the British Broadcasting corporation is, at last, being tried by an American network.

This is the issuance of a periodical containing a collection of speeches and talks recently broadcast over that particular web.

The American network's "digest of diversified interest broadcast", as the chain calls its publication, is a quarterly with possibility of its becoming a monthly. BBC's The Listener is a weekly of considerable circulation.

It is known that another American network recently contemplated issuance of a free magazine, probably along similar lines, but estimated costs were considered too prohibitive.

Should America's first network-owned and distributed magazine prove successful it is fairly certain other chains will enter the field.

Courtroom Broadcasts which not so long ago were something of a sensational innovation may not be so prevalent in the future if the action of a St. Paul judge is followed by other jurists.

This judge in announcing discontinuance of the "Traffic Court of the Air" expressed the belief that though the broadcasts did have good results the one year in which he and his court were on the air was sufficient.

It is quite possible that this judge is correct in his view and that, after a fairly long period, even traffic court proceedings no longer interest or have significance to the average listener with his insatiable appetite for variety in air programs.

NOTES — President Roosevelt will be on the air again Saturday, Feb. 8, 6:45 p. m. This time he will be talking on a Boy Scout jubilee program. Ed Wynn will soon be wise-cracking in behalf of a popular priced automobile. That's not such a jump, Ed, from gas to gas buggies. The winter Olympic games will be re-broadcast in America. The games are scheduled for Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, Feb. 6-16. Have you noticed that the Showboat (Thursday) program is changing its theme song?

BUCK GRIDDERS ON STATE JOBS WIN CLEAN BILL

Big Ten Committee, Headed By Griffith, Approves All Who Worked

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Part time state jobs for Big Ten football players were approved today by the conference committee on rule infractions.

Official sanction was contained in the committee's report on its investigation of charges involving fifteen Ohio State athletes.

"We find no evidence that either the Ohio State athletic department or other university officials were, in any way, instrumental in securing the appointment to these jobs," the committee said.

The committee is composed of Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of Big Ten athletics; Prof. A. C. Callen of Illinois and Prof. W. J. Moenkhaus of Indiana.

After Davey's Charge

The investigation was asked by the Ohio State athletic board last October after Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio startled the athletic world by reporting:

"We have done everything we can to help the Ohio State team and have most of the football squad on the state payroll."

Major Griffith collected the evidence and reported his findings to Callen and Moenkhaus.

The evidence he reported: (All figures from Nov. 1, 1934, to Nov. 1, 1935)

1. John Bettridge, Toledo, O., employed as page at three dollars per day. Earned four hundred dollars.

The investigation centered about the following athletes: John Bettridge, Roxi Belli, Frank Boucher, Sam Busch, Warren Chrissinger, Frank Cumiskey, Vic Dorris, Tippy Dye, Frank Fisch, Charles Hamrick, Gomer Jones, John Labeolo, Tom Monahan, Richard Ward, and Gus Zarnas.

Concluding his report, Griffith said:

After a careful investigation and close study of the evidence secured, it seems clear, first, that the fifteen Ohio State university football men who were employed by the state of Ohio from Nov. 1, 1934 to Nov. 1, 1935, secured their appointments on their own initiative and through the help of personal friends; second, that they were paid at the same rate as others who were not engaged in athletics; third, that there was no disproportion in the amount of jobs held by athletes; and fourth, that their work was so arranged as not to interfere with their university tasks."

AL GORDON, RACE DRIVER, KILLED IN TRACK CRASH

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Al Gordon of Long Beach, Cal., nationally known auto pilot, was killed yesterday and William Matlock, his riding mechanic, was critically injured when their car tumbled over a retaining wall during the running of a 200-lap race at Ascot auto speedway.

The accident occurred as Gordon's car hit the south turn on the 27th lap. The blue and white speedster suddenly went into a sharp spin, rocketed over the low retaining wall and whizzed down a steep embankment.

About This And That In Many Sports

Countains Victorious

Pickaway-co youths at Ohio State university were going great guns—The county club's cage team defeated Ashtabula, 29-4, for its second victory—On the county team were Tom Kirwin, Floyd Graves, Charles Gulick, Joe Wright, Jim Scoles, Ray French, Wells Wilson, Mace Brown, Herbie Hoover, and Ross Dodd—Neither Gene Briggs nor Ralph Dunkel were on hand—Gulick was high point man with nine counters—

Wright Meets Waltz

Joe Wright, Pickaway-twp., is scheduled to fight Bob Waltz of Cleveland in the semi-finals of the 124-pound class "A" boxing tourney—Mace, Brown, also of Pickaway, failed to make the weight for the lightweight wrestling tourney so goes the heavy-weight division—

Go to Westerville

Red and Black cagers travel to Westerville for a test Friday evening in the CBL—There's only one thing to it, if the Tigers are "on" they'll win; if they're "off" they'll lose—

Bad News Sought

During the winter, little Arvell Odell (Bad News) Hale, third baseman of the Cleveland Indians, was very much on the market. But, not now!

Therein lies a chapter in the baseball education of Cleveland Magnate Alva Bradley (who once had his picture taken in baseball uniform with Senator Huey Long). Until this winter, Bad News was regarded by Owner Bradley as just a fellow filling in at third base until a good third baseman came along.

Placed on the market, Hale was found to be in demand by nearly every club in the American league, and Mr. Bradley took him off the market just like that. The Cleveland magnate discovered that Bad News was regarded as one of the great young players of the games.

Magnate Bradley explains his indifference to Hale by the fact that he had been "too close" to Hale to realize his worth. Life is like that, eh wot?

DETROIT DEFEATS GREEN BAY TEAM IN 10-3 CONTEST

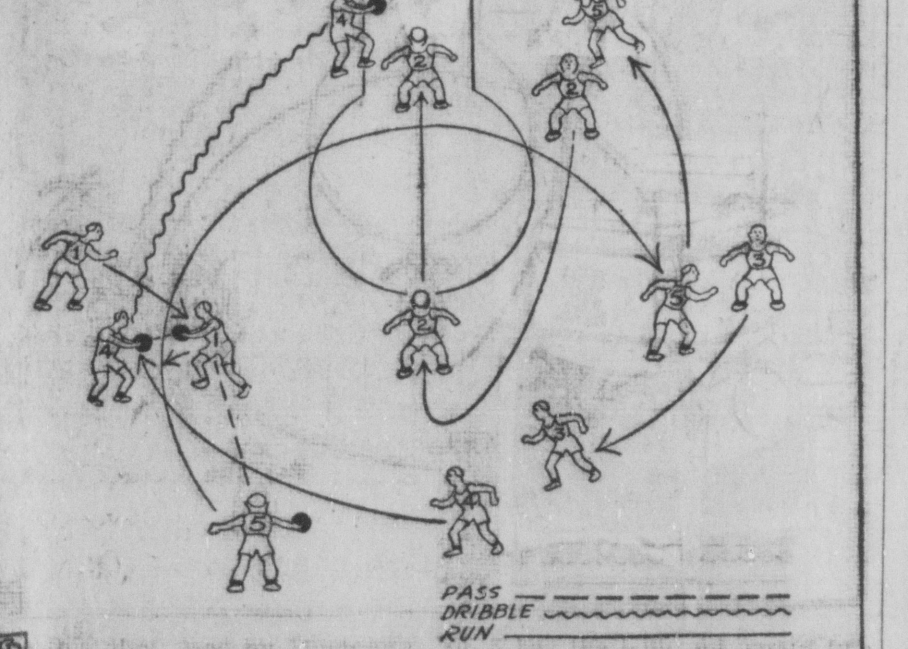

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27.—(UP)—A dash through tackle by Ace Gutowsky yesterday enabled the Detroit Lions, national pro football champions, to defeat the Green Bay Packers, 10 to 3, in an exhibition game at Gilmore stadium.

Ernie Caddell, Lion halfback, intercepted a Packer pass on his own 16 yard line midway in the third period and on the next play Gutowsky broke through tackle and ran to a touchdown. Clark converted the extra point.

The Packers held a three point lead at the end of the first half at a result of Schwammel's field goal from the Lion 23-yard stripe in the second quarter. Schwammel tried the field goal after line plays failed to gain.

In the final session Clark clinched the victory for the Lions by a dropkick over the goalposts from the 18-yard line.

Keogan Gives Gopher Play

In this play, used by Minnesota, No. 5 has the ball and passes to No. 1, who is breaking out toward the center of the floor. No. 5 then cuts around No. 1 who fakes a feed to No. 5. No. 4 follows closely behind No. 5. No. 1 feeds to No. 4, who dribbles and shoots. No. 2 follows up at center, and No. 5 follows in from the right. Nos. 1 and 3 drop back to guard.

By GEORGE E. KEOGAN
Notre Dame Basketball Coach

MINNESOTA, coached by Dave MacMillan, has produced some very good basketball teams. While the material at Minnesota never has been exceptionally good, the teams always give a very good account of themselves.

They are well coached, and plays such as that diagramed are typical of Minnesota basketball.

I don't think Minnesota will go far in the Big Ten this year. The Gophers started poorly, but one never can tell—they may finish like a whirlwind. No matter where they finish, when you play them you always get a ball game.

FRANCIS URGES AID FOR BIRDS

Feed Needed to Preserve County's Splendid Crop

Sportsmen of the county were urged Monday by Clarence Francis, game protector, to distribute grain in windbreaks for pheasants, quail and other birds.

During the severe weather Mr. Francis has made daily trips to game preserves and other sections of the county distributing feed. Many districts could not be reached because of drifted roads.

He reported finding a number of dead quail on his trips. Many were frozen standing. Due to the heavy snow the birds can find no feed. A flock of 27 pheasants are regular patrons at one feeding shelter on the Ruggles land in Pickaway-twp, he reported.

Pheasants withstand the severe weather much better than quail, he explained. They huddle together in brush heaps, and even seek refuge in open tiles and groundhog dens. The quail are usually found along fences where they have little protection from the near zero temperatures.

OWENS IS 'TOPS' ON TRACK TEAM

Ohio Negro Wins Three Positions on U. S. Selection

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Jesse Owens, Ohio State's negro sprinter, hurdler and broad jumper, occupied the position of the Nation's No. 1 track star today, having won three places on the All-America track and field team.

Despite the fact that Eulace Peacock, Temple negro, beat Owens in the 100 meters and broad jump in the National A. A. U. championships, the Ohio State athlete was picked by Dan Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U. for the 200 meter dash, 200 meter hurdles and broad jump on the annual team he selected for Spalding Athletic Club.

Eastern athletes dominated the team, winning 18 of the 25 places. None went to the midwest, six to the far west and two to the south.

Lafayette Coach

ACCORDING to announcement from Lafayette college Ernie Nevers, former All-American football player at Stanford and assistant coach there, will take head coaching duties at the Easton, Pa., college next September. Nevers succeeds Herbert (Herb) McCracken.

GOGGIN, HUNTER MEET IN WESTERN TOURNEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Willie Goggin, youthful San Francisco professional, met Willie Hunter, Los Angeles veteran, today in a 36-hole playoff for the national match play open golf championship and $1,675 first prize money.

Hunter entered the finals of the three-day tournament with a spectacular home stretch drive which gave him a one-up victory over Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., after a 19-hole semi-final contest.

Goggin, playing spectacularly, won a 3 and 2 victory over Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, in the other semi-final event.

THREE SCHOOLS HIT COURT SITE

Southwestern Highs Fight Against Dayton Coliseum

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Dissatisfaction and the threat of withdrawal from tournament play which came a year ago from scholastic basketball teams in Northeastern Ohio today was heard from the southwestern section of the state.

The bitterest dispute in the 11 year history of the Ohio High School Athletic Association arose last March when two Akron schools, North and West, drew each other in the first round of the state tournament.

It marked the second straight year Akron schools had met in the first round and it resulted in vigorous protests and threats of withdrawal.

The dispute was finally settled and North went on to win the scholastic championship. However, the protest of schools from the Northeastern district was instrumental in bringing about a revision in the tournament plan and the decision to use a selective draw for the first round of the state meet.

With the Northeastern district at peace, three southwestern Ohio schools, Middletown, Hamilton and Springfield, have brought on another war and have issued an ultimatum they will not compete if the district tournament for major Class "A" schools is held at the Coliseum at Dayton.

Middletown and Hamilton seek to move the tournament to Miami university, Oxford, and Springfield wants it at Wittenberg college. However, the three have agreed to play at Dayton if a site other than the Coliseum, scene of the tournament for many years, is used.

Oddities in Nation's News

COMPLAINTS LUCKY

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 27.—(UP)—Motorists complained to Motorcycle Patrolman James Stapleton that some prankster with a mirror was endangering traffic by flashing glaring light into drivers' eyes. Stapleton found that the glare was from a six-inch magnifying glass in a store window. He found more. The sun's rays through the glass had set fire to window draperies that were smoldering on the verge of flame. The fire company he called kept the fire confined to the window.

ORDER IS TOO MUCH

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—(UP)—The commissioners of the District of Columbia amazed a Chicago piano manufacturing concern by ordering a portable organ 32 feet high with a keyboard 30 feet from the floor and weighing only 60 pounds.

"It's so silly we won't even answer the letter," Wallace Kimball, an official of the company, said. "The empty case of such an organ would weigh so much that three men couldn't carry it. The order goes right in the waste basket."

MAYOR TO LEAD RAID

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27.—(UP)—The robbery of a bookie joint in Linndale was just one more thing that no one reported to Mrs. Ann C. Lakawitz, reform mayor of the railroad suburb. One hundred customers lost $600. Now Mayor Lakawitz plans to lead a raid on the place personally.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Truly magnificent in its spectacular sweep, yet absorbing in its delightful intimacy, "Tale of Two Cities," starring Ronald Colman, opened a limited engagement yesterday at the Cliftona Theatre.

It takes its place among the immortal works of the screen, entertainment which cannot be praised too highly. It is a photograph that no man, woman or child can afford to miss.

Ronald Colman's fans will find him at his best. He never has had a role which gave him such opportunity for the quiet humor, the high drama and the poignancy he expresses so well. As Sydney Carton, whimsical, sardonic, brilliant wastrel, he reaches the peak of his artistic career.

AT THE GRAND

What is said to be the longest continuous dialogue film scene ever recorded was played by Bette Davis and George Brent in "Special Agent," the Cosmopolitan production now showing at the Grand Theatre, as a Warner Bros. release.

The scene, played at a cafe table, is six full script pages and runs four and a half minutes, requiring 405 feet of film.

Neither of the two players missed a cue or a line.

GAMBLER FOUND DEAD

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27.—(UP)—The body of William Wiggins, 24, negro, an alleged policy writer, was found in a ditch near here today. Wiggins' body had several bullet wounds in it. Cleveland detectives believed gambling rivals of Wiggins' were responsible for his death.

RECIPES

Scalloped Oysters

Four cups fine soft bread crumbs; one fourth teaspoon salt; one eighth teaspoon of pepper; one eighth teaspoon of paprika; one half cup melted butter; one pint blueprint oysters, drained; one third cup oyster liquor; half cup top milk.

Combine bread, crumbs, salt, pepper, and paprika. Add butter tossing lightly to mix well. Sprinkle one third of crumbs in bottom of greased baking dish. Arrange one half of oysters on crumbs. Sprinkle second third of crumbs over oysters. Add remaining oysters. Combine oyster liquor and milk and pour over oysters. Top with remaining crumbs and sprinkle lightly with paprika. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) thirty minutes. Serves eight.

Fruit Tarts For Tea Time

One cup shortening; two teaspoons baking powder; five egg yolks; two cups flour; three fourths cup sugar; grated rind of one lemon; a little salt; fresh fruit, or cooked fruit such as berries, apricots, cherries. Sift the flour with the salt and baking powder into a bowl. Make a hole in the center of the flour and put the shortening and sugar in this. Work lightly with the fingers until the mixture is well blended. Then add the egg yolks and the grated rind and mix the dough until it forms a ball. Work it just enough to make this ball, no more. Chill the dough in the refrigerator. Roll out thin and line small tins or baking dishes with it. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., until golden brown. Cool and fill one third full of custard. Then cover this with macaroon crumbs. Fill to edge of shell with any cooked fruit. Serve with a rosette of custard on top; or a dab of whipped cream.

Almond Cakes
One half cup shortening; four eggs; one and one half cups flour; one and one half teaspoons baking powder; one cup sugar; one cup blanched almonds; one teaspoon almond flavoring.

Blend the shortening and sugar; Add eggs, one at a time, and beat well between the additions. Add flour, sifted with baking powder, chopped nuts and flavoring. Bake in small tins, in a moderate oven 375 degrees F., for twelve to fifteen minutes. Ice with chocolate or coffee flavored icing and decorate with a whole almond kernel.

Old Fashioned Potato Egg Salad For Buffet Suppers
Three cups cold boiled potatoes; one cup cooked or canned green peas; four hard cooked eggs; one onion; fresh tomatoes; mayonnaise.

Chill the potatoes, cut in small cubes, and mix lightly with sliced hard cooked eggs. Add the onion chopped fine, also add peas. Toss together in a little French dressing and let stand an hour in the refrigerator. Drain. Add enough mayonnaise to coat well. Pile in a lettuce lined salad bowl and garnish with sections of ripe tomato. Use celery in place of the peas for another version of this favorite salad.

Chicken Mousse

Another buffet supper dish is chicken mousse.
Four cups chicken aspic; sliced meat of one large cooked chicken; about one cup cooked carrots; one cup cooked peas; small slices of green pepper; Mayonnaise.

Cover the bottom of a ring mold with one inch of aspic. When partly set decorate with strips of green pepper. Cover these with a thin layer of aspic. On this arrange the carrots cut in fancy shapes and the cooked peas. Lay slices of the chicken around on these, setting each layer with a thin layer of aspic. Fill to top with aspic. Let congeal. Unmold on a base of lettuce. Garnish with chutney and mayonnaise.

Sausage and Pancakes

A New Way
Five large pancakes; butter; one fourth pound cooked sausage meat; three tablespoons maple cream; three tablespoons chopped cooked bacon; three tablespoons apple jelly.

Spread each cake with butter. Cover first pancake with sausage (made into flat patty the size of pancake). Cover with second pancake. Spread with maple cream. Cover third pancake with bacon—fourth with apple jelly. When serving cut in pie shaped pieces. Serve very hot. Enough for six.

Frankfurters Stuffed

Twelve frankfurters; three fourths cup chopped tart apples; twelve narrow strips bacon; wooden picks.

Place frankfurters in cold water. Bring to boiling and remove. Cut frankfurters in two lengthwise. Fill each frankfurter, sandwich-style, with chopped apple. Wrap one strip of bacon around each frankfurter, securing each end

LAMSON TO FACE JURORS FOURTH TIME IN DEATH

Stanford College Man on Trial in Bathtub Death of Co-Ed Wife

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 27.—(UP)—David A. Lamson, once sentenced to death as the convicted slayer of his dark-eyed, esthetic young wife, faced prosecution on the charge a fourth time today in Santa Clara county's red-roofed courthouse.

Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco of Mariposa-co remained as presiding jurist in the case, which he entered when Superior Judge Robert R. Syer of San Jose disqualified himself following the second trial in compliance with defense demands.

A venire of 250 names was ready for use if needed in selecting the jury which will hear details of the mysterious death of Allene Thorpe Lamson, former Stanford coed and University Y. W. C. A. secretary, found dead in the bathtub of the Lamsons' vine-covered campus cottage Memorial day, 1933.

Allene's skull had been fractured and her body reclined over the edge of the tub when her husband, entering the house to admit prospective tenants, discovered her dead.

Since that day nearly three years ago, Lamson has remained imprisoned, awaiting final adjudication of his guilt or innocence.

His first trial jury declared him guilty and Judge Syer sentenced him to death on San Quentin's gallows. After spending nearly a year on the prison "condemned row," Lamson was granted a retrial motion by the State Supreme Court, which held evidence was not sufficient to sustain the conviction and judgment.

His second trial ended in a jury deadlock, with the majority favoring conviction.

A third trial which began before Judge Trabucco ended in a mistrial.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Game for Party

An Eatless Dinner: To play An Eatless Dinner, everyone sits around a table, alternating a man and a girl. Each girl has a paper and pencil. At the signal the men start the game. Each one whispers to the girl on his right the names of as many foods as he can think of beginning with the letter A. The girl quickly writes these on the paper which she has for the purpose. At the end of one minute the signal to change is given and the men rise and progress to the seat ahead. Here they dictate to the new partner the names of foods beginning with B. This continues, each time using a new letter, until the men have returned to their original places. The girls then count up the number of articles of food which they have, and the girl with the highest number is the winner. It is hardly fair to give all the credit to the girl, but the winning girl may name the man who contributed the most articles of food to her list.

PRESIDENT NOMINATES UNDERWOOD

Senate Votes Bonus, 76-19

VETO DEFEATED BY BIG MARGIN IN FINAL COUNT

Treasury Prepares to Issue "Baby" Bonds as Long Contest Reaches End

FINANCE NOW QUESTION

Application Blanks to Be Available to Soldiers at District Offices

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(UP)—Congress tossed aside a presidential veto today, enacted the $2,237,000,000 soldiers bonus measure and tossed the problem of how and where to get the money to pay the veterans in the lap of the administration.

The senate vote of 76 to 19 to over-ride the veto smashed the last rampart in a 15-year battle for payment of the bonus.

Veterans organizations, which led the campaign for immediate payment of the bonus originally due in 1945, saw the senate follow the pace set by the house last Friday when it over-ruled President Roosevelt's six-paragraph, handwritten veto message. The senate action made the bonus a law. Payment will be made probably next June in "baby" bonds.

Inflation Fight Seen

A congressional fight for inflation to pay the huge sum now due 3,518,000 veterans in all parts of the United States was believed certain. Administration sources, however, have indicated that additional taxation would be necessary to meet the bonus payments.

In this connection, it was pointed out that this is a campaign year and that political leaders hesitate to offer proposals for new taxation at present. At the same time, the administration experts were known to be working on new tax proposals necessitated by various readjustments in the 1936 budget since the opening of congress.

The bonus passage removed one of the most troublesome political issues of the post-war period, although the question of providing the money remains to be settled.

Paid in "Baby" Bonds

Payment, the bill provided, will be made in "baby" bonds which can be cashed or held as an investment.

It was understood the treasury department had begun preparation for printing the bonds, in $50 denominations, but an immense amount of detail work still is necessary. The bonds will be dated June 15, so that veterans must wait five months for their cash.

A veteran receiving bonds for his adjusted service certificate will be able to cash them or hold them for nine years, receiving three per cent interest.

The amount of bonds and cash the veteran will receive will correspond to the 1945 or full maturity value of his certificate, less whatever he has borrowed on it and less interest after Sept. 30, 1931. The bonds will be non-negotiable and cannot be attached for debts or other obligations.

The veterans administration said that application blanks were ready and, if necessary could be mailed out tomorrow. Veterans should apply to their district offices for these blanks, it was said.

HERE is the scene and the wreckage of the tragic grade-crossing accident near Fort Wayne, Ind., in which 12 persons of one family were killed. Marion McBride, 48-year-old, father on relief, his wife, 41, and their entire family were victims when their overcrowded automobile was struck by a Wabash passenger train. A baby, still-born to Mrs. McBride, which would have been born normally in a few days, according to hospital attendants, was found in the wreck.

Scioto Valley Farmers Urge State Income Tax

Resolution to Be Sent Senators, Representative Asking Action to Bar Further Real Tax; Noecker Elected

Farmers attending the Scioto Valley institute, Ashville, adopted a resolution Saturday afternoon urging the state senators and county representative of this district to propose and support an income tax which would act as a bar against increases in real estate taxes.

The tax, they explained, would aid in taking care of expenses of government and might also bring about a reduction in the state sales tax.

Resolutions were also adopted for an exhibition of farm and home products at the 1937 institute and sessions for junior farmers. The exhibitions would include adult and junior groups with premium lists offered for each.

The new officers elected are: Howard Noecker, president; Ira Scothern, vice president; Mary Kuhlwein, secretary; Archie Peters, treasurer, and Mrs. Martin Cromley, hostess. Members of the executive committee are: Lewis Hay, Mrs. Homer Reber, Paul Peters, Mrs. Henry Snyder and Mrs. William Duvall.

Ethridge Justice, 225 E. Union-st, extra policeman, was placed on duty by Safety Director Charles Caskey to serve during Shasteen's absence.

Low temperature in Circleville Monday morning was eight degrees below zero, while Sunday's high was 15 above. At noon the mercury had climbed only to four degrees above zero.

Two county schools, Ashville and Madison-twp, remained closed due to trouble in the heating systems.

All other county schools were reported open. They were closed last Wednesday because of drifted roads.

Biting Arctic winds howled down from the frozen wastes of western Canada today reviving a record-breaking cold wave in all the territory east of the Rocky mountains. Light snow in the east presaged a new blizzard.

Sub-zero temperatures prevailed for the sixth successive day in the middle west. It was the most extensive cold wave since 1912. Even the deep south, with the exception of southern Florida, shivered in freezing temperatures.

Cold to Continue

The severe cold will continue at least through Wednesday, forecasters said. Many rural schools will remain closed until more normal temperatures return.

Deaths attributed to the cold throughout the nation mounted to more than 175. Hundreds of cases of frostbite were treated at hospitals.

Derailing of five cars of a passenger train at Sulphur Springs, Ia., and a 3-car elevated train in Chicago was blamed on rails cracking in the intense cold. No one was injured in the Iowa wreck but a score of persons received first aid treatment after the elevated cars jumped the tracks. Four were hospitalized.

The piercing northwest wind added to the discomfort in nearly all sections of the country east to the Atlantic seaboard.

Carol 'Snubbed' as He Goes to King's Funeral

LONDON, Jan. 27.—(UP)—King Carol of Roumania has shocked royal circles again by his open devotion to Mme. Magda Lupescu, the sweetheart for whose love he once renounced his right to the throne.

Carol took Mme. Lupescu with him when he left for London to attend the funeral of King George, his cousin. She stayed in Paris, awaiting him there.

Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania refused to accompany her son on his royal train, and it is now announced that a cold will make it impossible for her to attend the funeral. King George was her first cousin.

While here, Carol is staying, as King Edward's guest, at Lady Granard's residence. This house is used to entertain royal guests when Buckingham palace is overcrowded. However, room has been found in the palace for other kings, for the Crown Prince of Italy and for Prince Friedrich of Prussia and Prince Ernest August of Hanover.

From this it may be deduced that the British royal family has not forgiven Carol for divorcing Princess Helen of Greece.

Sled Runner Pierces Jaw Of Villager

Pulling out a cold steel sled runner that gouged in his mouth and out his right cheek was the gruesome operation Robert Stevens, 14, gritty Williamsport high school student had to perform on himself Saturday afternoon.

The accident occurred on the village hill on Route 22, while Robert and a group of other youths were coasting toward the Deercreek bridge. Robert was following Junior Whiteside, 14, down the grade when Junior's sled overturned. The sled runner cut through the Stevens boys' lip on the left side of his face, cut his tongue and went through his right cheek at an angle that made it protrude out near his ear. No teeth were broken.

Although he was unable to say much because of the number of stitches in his mouth he told Dr. G. D. Sheets he "just braced himself, put both hands on the sled and pulled."

William Johnson, Williamsport youth, brought Robert to Berger hospital where he was treated by Dr. Sheets and discharged. Stitches were taken in his lip, tongue and on both the inside and outside of his cheek. He took no anesthetic.

He is the son of Mrs. Gladys Stevens.

Murray D. Lincoln, secretary of the Ohio Farm bureau, will lead a discussion on cooperative development of rural electrification preceding the address of Rankin.

NEW LEXINGTON MAN TO ASSUME FEDERAL BENCH

Name of 11th District Congressman Given to Senate at Noon Today

CONFIRMATION CERTAIN

Appointment Opens Way for Spirited Primary Race in Five Counties

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—(UP)—

dent Roosevelt today sent the name of Congressman Mel G. Underwood of New Lexington, O., to the senate for confirmation as federal judge in the southern Ohio district to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Benson W. Harbo.

Confirmation is believed only a matter of time, since Underwood carries the support of the senate of justice and of Ohio senators, Robert J. La Follette and Donahay.

It has been announced last week that Underwood was nominated by the president.

Serving himself, Underwood is a lawyer and has been in the Ohio district since 1921. He is a native of Pennsylvania.

Several candidates have already entered the race, including Mr. Underwood would replace Judge Hough's toga. Others are waiting until the New Lexington man actually had the job. Every county in the district, it is believed, will have at least one person in the race.

TO F. D. R. SMITH TALK IS REPUDIATION

Ickes, Barkley Refer to Record; Sen. Robinson to Answer Tuesday Night

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27—(UP)—New Dealers brought out "the record" today, quoting former President Herber Hoover and Alfred E. Smith, in reply to the latter's charges of "Socialism."

Hoover was quoted as accusing Smith of "state socialism" in the 1928 presidential campaign, and the "happy warrior" as telling a senate committee in 1933 that he favored a "public works dictator and shelving the constitution."

Smith's speech, one of the most caustic assaults yet made on the New Deal, rocked the capital as no other political speech has in years, he was wildly applauded by the 2,500 persons at the Liberty League dinner Saturday night.

Republican Charged

First to reply—and "point to the records"—were Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, D., Ky., and Donald R. Richberg, former head of NRA. They accused Smith of repudiating the policies he advocated in 1928.

Sen. Joseph T. Robinson, D., Ark., Smith's running mate in the 1928 presidential campaign, will make the administration's formal reply to Smith in a 30-minute radio address over a nation-wide hookup tomorrow night.

Reaction to Smith's speech was mixed in the capital. New Deal Democrats generally were critical. Republicans applauded. Both were puzzled as to his campaign intentions.

His much-heralded speech was more caustic than had been expected, and his repudiation of the New Deal more emphatic than political observers had anticipated. But he left his future course in doubt.

Political Washington speculated whether Smith intends actively to campaign against the New Deal ticket or sanction a Jeffersonian or constitutional Democratic national convention to nominate an opposition ticket.

His statement that he was born in the Democratic party and expected to die in it appeared to dispose of any possibility that he would campaign for a Republican presidential nominee or lead a coalition ticket of any kind.

Democratic leaders generally wanted to take their cue from Robinson's "official" reply. Robinson, meanwhile, declined to comment, locking himself in his office and preparing his speech.

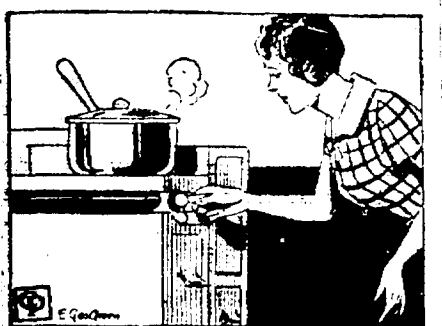

Norris is Caustic

Sen. George W. Norris, R., Neb., who supported Smith in 1928 and has been friendly toward many New Deal measures, belittled the New Yorker's speech as offering nothing new and representing the "suppressed feeling of a bad loser." The peroration, he said, "was that of a demagogue."

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., one of Smith's western managers in 1928, said "it was the speech of a great man gone wrong," and added that it was "the masters of corporate wealth" that he made it.

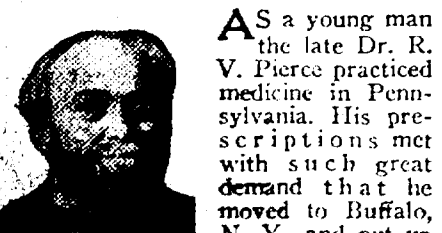

While most New Deal leaders remained silent, some others were stung into sharp reply. Donald R. Richberg, former head of NRA, joined Melvin D. Hildreth, executive secretary of the National Progressive league, in a statement.

The two adopted the customary Smith tactics of "taking a look at the record"—Smith's record this time.

Almost all kinds of stewing or boiling should be done with the gas burner turned low; the results will be better. Rapid cooking often spoils food. The proper method is to start the boiling over a single burner with full flame, and when the boiling point is reached turn the flame very low, or transfer the utensil to the simmerer, if you have one.

A FAMOUS DOCTOR

AS a young man the late Dr. R. V. Pierce practiced medicine in Pennsylvania. His prescriptions met with such great demand that he moved to Buffalo, N. Y., and put up in ready-to-use Golden Discovery, which will eliminate poisons from the intestines, improve the appetite, and tone up the entire system.

Golden Discovery—new size, tablets 50 cts., or large size tabs. or liquid, $1.00 per bottle.

Ohio Democrats in Washington Making "Peace"

AFTER leading a "peace delegation" to Washington to arrange a harmony program between the erstwhile at-odds Democratic state and national administrations, Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio promenades along Capitol Hill with two other "united Ohio" officials. Senator Francis Poulson, Democratic state chairman, at the right. The governor and his peace delegation had an audience with President Roosevelt and told him he would win Ohio.

TWO INSTITUTES START SESSIONS; SPEAKERS LISTED

Institutes in Salter Creek and Commercial Point, the last two on the county schedule, opened Monday for two-day sessions.

Changes in the principal speakers for both programs were announced shortly before noon.

B. O. Skinner, former state director of education, notified officials he would be unable to attend the meeting. P. E. Grubb of Johnstown, a Master farmer and a member of the American Society of Agriculture Engineers, was appointed to replace Mr. Skinner. Mr. Grubb is a member of the 40-Bushel Wheat club and a Farm Bureau director. In addition to conducting a dairy, raising grain and livestock he plants about 75 acres of potatoes each year.

Mrs. C. R. Milnor of Pickerington, who attended all institutes last week was scheduled to speak at Commercial Point today but could not attend Tuesday's sessions. Mrs. Lottie M. Randolph of New Lexington, Rt. 1, was appointed to take her place. Mrs. Randolph, the first 4-H club leader in Perry-co, has served on the home economics committee of the Ohio State Grange, and is supervisor of the young People's department of religious education in Perry-co.

MILL HAS ANNIVERSARY

MT. GILEAD, Jan. 27—The 100th anniversary of the founding of the Buckeye Milling Company was observed here today. The organization was founded by William Cooper and operated by him until 1887 when it was purchased by Walter S. House. The milling property is now owned by Albert W. Patzloff, Chicago, who purchased it two years ago.

TARLTON HOLDS FINE INSTITUTE

O. S. Mowery Again Named
President; Contest is Held

Three officers of the Tarlton Farmers' Institute were re-elected at the closing session Saturday afternoon. They are: O. S. Mowery, president; W. E. Luckhart, vice president, and G. F. Shride, treasurer. D. W. Macklin was elected secretary and Miss Gift Macklin, hostess.

Members of the executive committee are: Nellie E. Mowery, J. E. Kettelman and Myrtle Reichelderfer.

Twenty amateurs took part in the imitation "Major Bowes" amateur program presented in the Community hall Saturday night as the closing feature of the institute. Marion Sensenbrenner, Circleville, soloist, took first prize; Miss Anna Pontius, Tarlton, reader, was awarded second prize, and the Laurelville Cuckoos, a string band, the third prize. All were awarded storage batteries donated by a well-known manufacturer. Mr. Mowery acted as "Major Bowes."

Officials reported an exceptionally large crowd attended the institute sessions considering the severe weather and conditions of the roads in the district.

TWO IN JAIL AFTER W. MAIN-ST "BRAWL"

Otto Gluth, this city, and Hattie Brown, 17-year-old Washington-twp girl, spent Sunday and Monday in the city jail pending charges as the result of a "brawl" in a W. Main-st rooming house early Sunday.

At noon Monday charges had not been filed.

The Brown girl was treated in Berger hospital at 3:25 a. m. Sunday for cuts and bruises allegedly inflicted by Gluth after the girl struck him on the head with a beer bottle. It was reported Joe Morris, John McCrady, and John Porter pulled Gluth from the girl after she struck him.

Police were reluctant to discuss the circumstances surrounding the arrests.

By mild ripe tobacco we mean just this—

FIRST—ripened in the sunshine... and picked leaf by leaf from the right part of the stalk when fully ripe.

THEN—each day's picking cured right by the farmer... at the right time and in the right way... no "splotching" or brittleness, but every leaf of good color and flavor.

FINALLY—bought in the open market... re-dried for storage... then packed in wooden hogsheads to age and mellow for two years or more until free from harshness and bitterness.

That's what we mean by mild, ripe tobacco. And that's the kind of tobacco we use to give Chesterfields their milder, better taste.

THE BEAUTIFUL

SNOW is a lovely thing in the country, if one can look out of the window from a cozy warm room and observe the crystals piling on top of one another to the greater glory of the landscape. Even in the city one can extract an ethical delight from the process.

Not, however, if one has to go out in it. Snow leads inevitably to slush, and one has suspicions of the credibility of the slush fancier. Even ice, if it covers the street to the downfall of the unwary, does not bear the same connotation as it does when tinkling in a glass, the temperature in the 90s. To the city dweller snow is just as much an unmitigated nuisance as it is if one lives in the country and has to get about. Let us be honest about it. Theoretically we all love the snow in the abstract; in the concrete—and when it solidifies into what we painfully remove from our sidewalks, concrete is right—let us not deceive ourselves. Cities, especially, do not mix well with snow. Civilization, or what we call civilization in our metropolitan pride, has a way of going on, though in the going it encounters troubles. Especially if one drives a car. So the conflict between civilization and dear old Nature is bitter.

This is only January, so there is no use in looking forward to spring. There will be such a thing—there always has been. But winter is here now and for six weeks, at least, there will be plenty more of it. We will endure it as we must, but it might be as well if no further reference is made to beautiful snow. Humanity can bear a lot, but there comes a time . . .

The next time we read a story about the potential dangerousness of one Joe Louis' unknown opponents our comment will be summed up in one brief word. The word is "Nuts."

Among the more virulent critics of Old Doc Townsend's scheme are the professional politicians who go along year after year promising the taxpayers an economical government.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

Rooseveltian leadership, it is rumored, practically has abandoned hope of winning business' support of its presidential candidate at the coming election, but is concentrating upon the task of capturing almost the solid vote of the commonest of the common people.

Business is improving but business men don't seem to thank the administration for it. Contrariwise, the more it improves, the more, apparently, they resent government interference with their efforts to make the most of the improvement. The White House, from all accounts, has about arrived at the conclusion that folk like the members of the American Liberty league, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers are irreconcilable in their attitude toward New Deal policies.

But, after all, agriculture and the industrial masses are in a vast majority over the select element of the voters. If President Roosevelt can consolidate such a bulk of the electorate under his banner, he can do without the comparative for intrinsics.

HOWE ON JOB AGAIN

This line of reasoning is said to be, not so much Democratic National Chairman (and Postmaster General) James A. Farley's as Colonel Louis McHenry Howe's.

The colonel, chief White House secretary and most trusted presidential adviser, has sufficiently recovered from his illness of the past few months to be devoting an hour or two a day to 1936 campaign strategy.

The story is that he thinks Farley has bungled.

It is a fact that Farley made

NEW BRITISH KING HATES DICTATORS; LIKELY TO CHANGE FOREIGN POLICY

WASHINGTON—Now that the Prince of Wales has become King of England keep an eye on British foreign policy. The new King is a sincere believer in democracy, hates dictatorships, and has a personal dislike for Mussolini. (He does not know Hitler personally.) Also he is a dynamic individual, likely to impress his views upon the British Cabinet . . . The nationwide hook-up which the Columbia Broadcasting System gave Al Smith's Liberty League harangue cost the League not a cent. Without Columbia's generosity, the charge would have been $15,235.25 . . . Pittsburgh's industrious Representative Henry Ellenbogen is an unquenchable optimist. He has introduced a bill to create a commission to negotiate payment of the defaulted war debts . . . The United Mine Workers, one of the most liberal affiliates of the American Federation of Labor, will hold its annual convention this week in Constitution Hall, Washington, owned by swank, conservative Daughters of the American Revolution. Around 2,000 miner delegates will attend, and one of the important questions to be acted upon is a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment curbing the power of the Supreme Court.

TALMADGE PRESS-AGENT

Washington publicity man for Governor Gene Talmadge, Georgia's arch-Roosevelt foe, is Sam Jones, formerly a press adviser of the Republican National Committee. The Committee denies emphatically that the Republicans have any connection with Jones' current activities . . . The Social Security Board is making a quiet investigation of reports that hotels and restaurants in many cities are requiring waiters to report the amount of tips they collect. Such information is not required by the Social Security Act, and the Board wants to know the reason for the order . . . More than one-fifth of the members of Congress, including Speaker Joe Byrns, Vice President Jack Garner and other leaders, omit birth dates in their personal biographies in the Congressional Directory . . . Despite the bitter warring by utilities against the Holding Company Act, a large number of them have notified the Securities and Exchange Commission of plans to simplify their capital structures. Among those instituting such reforms are the giant Electric Bond & Share, New Jersey Public Service, Cities Service, the Bylesby group, International Paper and Power, and Niagara Hudson, a Morgan company.

POWER BEHIND HIM

Now, Lewis, as head of the United Mine Workers, might reasonably be expected to hold the voting balance of power in Pennsylvania and West Virginia; to be strong in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Iowa, Kansas and western Maryland; to weigh in Colorado and Montana, which are mining states.

Moreover he is the apostle of industrial unionism—not only the miners, the automobile workers, the rubber workers, the radio workers, the cement workers, the aluminum workers; in fact, all hither to unorganized trades. The masses!

He should catch, administrationists reckon, the Socialist vote. He is in conflict with the American Federation of Labor certainly. But the A. F. of L. an alliance of crafts, has a membership of approximately 4,000,000. Lewis looks toward an alliance of nearly 40,000,000.

And there is nothing intrinsically antagonistic between his program and the farmers.

GARNER'S "HEALTH"
But what to do with Garner? The administration would like to have him back in the house of representatives.

Of course, he would insist on being speaker. Speaker Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee naturally wouldn't agree to give place to him.

If Garner waives his future vice presidential chances, the assumption is that it will be "on account of his health." No one is rash enough to believe that, if his health fails, it will be otherwise than in favor of something else pretty good.

Garner is a problem to be reckoned with at the next Democratic national convention.

MURDER UPSTAIRS

ADAM BLISS

CHAPTER 55

"WHAT DO the police mean, Alice?" Lucy whispered, huskily, when Larrabee announced she would have to be searched.

"They think, Lucy, that you knocked on Grace's door because you wanted to kill her. I know my answer was brutal, but the scream had unnerved me, too. 'I know, Lucy, you haven't a knife or a gun on you, but they don't. However, I'll have to search you anyway.' She only had on her nightgown under her bathrobe, and slippers on her feet. So it was easy. There was nothing in my hand but her keys in the pockets of her bathrobe except a handkerchief, and nothing in her loose slippers.

"You don't believe—"
"Of course I don't. I know you came to Grace's room merely to ask her to awaken you early in the morning. If she hadn't gone to bed, and if she had planned to slip the note under the door, I know, Lucy, you don't have to shout me. It's unfortunate that Grace had to scream, but she was afraid. I suppose, I might have done the same thing, scream I mean, if someone knocked on my door just as I was going to sleep."

"You'll explain to Mr. Larrabee?"
"I'll explain, but it won't do any good. You shouldn't have come up here, Lucy. You should have come to me, and I would have told Grace. With Larrabee around suspecting everybody—There was a knock at the door that interrupted me, and Larrabee came in.

"Yes, and of course I found nothing except a handkerchief. He merely granted and called Ross into the room."

"Not that I don't trust Mr. Penny. Ross—do—but she's peculiar. I don't want you to search this room thoroughly."
Ross nodded, and I wasn't surprised. I had expected that I put my arm about Lucy and took her downstairs. Larrabee followed us and was waiting for me when I came out of Lucy's room.

"What now?" I asked.

"If you'll come down to the sitting room, please."

The confusion that Grace's scream had caused had subsided. The doors were closed in the corridors and the house was quiet once more. An officer was standing near Lucy's door on the second floor, and another was stationed at the third floor door to the back stairs.

I went down into the sitting room alone, and when Larrabee joined me 10 minutes later, he said that nothing had been found in my room.

"Mostly a matter of precaution, Mrs. Bliss," he said.

"I understand only too well, Lucy didn't kill Andrew Daren nor Della Randall, and the sooner you make your mind up to that, the sooner you'll find the murderer." It was angry, but when I calmed down a little, I realized that Larrabee was only doing his duty. He suspected everybody and Lucy had done something suspicious, innocently.

"Perhaps you can tell me, Larrabee, who did murder Daren and Della?"

"I can't."

"You can't?"

"Yes, I can. The person who bolted the front door after Mr. Withers left the house at midnight, Monday night murdered Mr. Daren and Della Randall."

Larrabee laughed—much, too loudly, for the quiet of the house, for the quiet of the night, and for the condition of my nerves.

If he hadn't laughed at me, I might have told him then and there what I knew, but his laugh hurt my pride. So I didn't tell him anything. Instead I closed up like a clam and walked stiffly to the door. I was going to when he came again.

"Dr. Rudemar is coming to see me tomorrow afternoon at 4." There was a slight lift to his left eyebrow and a queer smile playing on his lips. That settled me. I wouldn't tell him. He was taunting me and I knew it. Besides, for all I knew, I had no proof, not a shred of it. Mere suspicion wouldn't count in court. But if, with my suspicions, I could get something else—some definite proof!

"I reached my room, accompanied by Sergeant Ross right to my door. I locked myself in, and looked under the bed and in my closet as well as in the old walnut trousseau chest that had been in my family for generations. The chest is a big one, and would hold a strong, husky man I was taking no chances.

Then I sat down with a paper and pencil and thought for an hour. While I was thinking, my pencil was making marks on the paper. Some I had to get proof. I made a diagram of the front 'parlor' and wrote in French, Italian and German on that paper and other papers I used up during the hour. I drew pictures around it like a schoolboy trying to solve a geometry problem.

(Copyright)

I thought of a dozen plans, two dozen, and discarded them all. Most of them would take too much time and I didn't have much to go on. I had until 4 o'clock the following afternoon when Dr. Rudemar would ring the front doorbell. My plan must be speedy, sure. My proof must be convincing to Larrabee—to everyone.

There was the inquest over Della in the morning—so two hours of my time would be wasted. That left very little time.

At the end of the hour it came to me—how I was to get my proof. I weighed it over and over again, and each time it seemed to me more and more dangerous. Still, all the plans I had made and discarded were dangerous. When I finally decided on it, I tore my papers into bits, found a match and burned them.

After I was in bed, I considered whether or not I would tell Kirk Larrabee in the morning. Before I made a decision I was sound asleep and didn't know anything more until Grace called me. In the clear freshness of the morning, I knew I would go through with my scheme alone. If I were wrong—although I didn't see how I could be—the fault would be mine and nobody else's. If I were right—

I was going upstairs to dress for the inquest which was to be at 10 in the corner's office when Conrad Withers stopped me as I had my hand on the knob of the door leading to the back stairs on the third floor.

"Have you a moment, Mrs. Penny?"

I did have, because Larrabee wasn't going to start until 15 minutes to 10 and it was half an hour until then, so I followed Withers into his room.

"You're going to the inquest?"

I said I was.

"Would you do something for me, Mrs. Penny? It's a lot to ask, but I've no one else to go to—"

"If I can—"

He looked rather haggard as he stood blinking in the strong spring sunlight that flooded his room.

"I've a letter that I want mailed, but I can't mail it myself. I don't want anyone to see me drop it in the box—you know what would happen if Larrabee found out?"

"I did," I watched him as he pulled an envelope stamped and addressed from his pocket. It was crumpled a little as if it had been under his pillow all night.

Dinner Stories

A MYSTERY

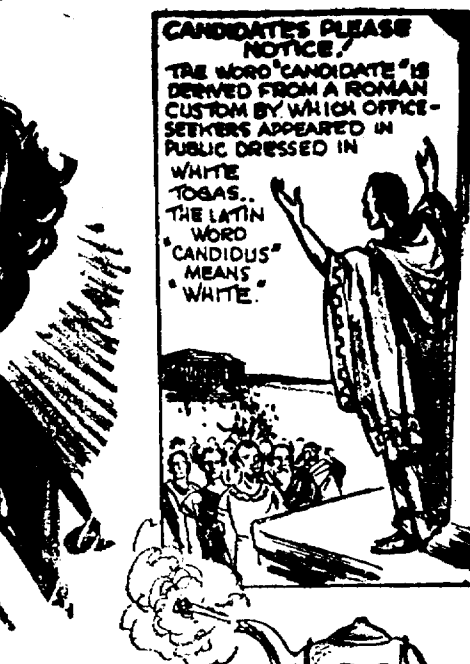

A young man noticed a ravel on the shoulder of his dancing partner and pulled it. By the time he surrendered her to another partner he had a ball of string in his hand, and threw it in the corner. The next morning the young lady was telling her mother about the dance and said, "I had a perfectly wonderful time, but Mamma, I can't figure out how it became of my union suit."

AN OBLIGATORY PSYCHIC

DOUBTLESS psychic bids have been dreadfully overworked. Two of the best former pairs in the country have become so addicted to overworked psychic bids that within a week I heard one of the six best players in the country refer to them as "push overs," which I fear is true, although both pairs would deny such statement with indignation. If ever an opening bid may be called obligatory, it was so in a duplicate game last week. The hand is shown below.

Dumb Work

The next deal came in a private game. South's bidding was bad enough, but North's was crude and about as dumb as I have witnessed in a long time.

SHOCK OF CRASH KILLS TRAINMAN

Conductor on Wabash, Fatal to Family, is Dead

DETROIT, Jan. 27—(UP)—Frank S. Bray, 64-year-old conductor for the Wabash railroad, died of a heart ailment at his home here yesterday, just two days after his train had killed 11 persons in an accident near Grabbill, Ind.

Bray had been confined to his bed in his home since his arrival here following the accident which took the lives of a father, mother, and their nine children. Dr. Clyde R. Van Gundy, attending physician, said that the shock of the accident led to Bray's death.

Bray was born in Ypsilanti, Mich., and came to Detroit 44 years ago to enter the service of the Wabash railroad.

The railroading accident took the lives of Marion McBride, 43-year-old WPA worker, his wife Susan, 40, and their children, Clara, 14; Marion, Jr., 12; Mary, 10; Arthur, 8; Virginia, 6; Phyllis, 5; Robert, 3, Richard and Ramona, 17-months-old twins.

COMPROMISE HEARING ON GAS RATE SOUGHT

LIMA, Jan. 27—(UP)—An effort to have the Ohio Public Utilities commission schedule a compromise hearing on the 1933 rate ordinance controversy between the city of Lima and the West Ohio Gas Company will be made this week by City Solicitor Charles W. Long. Long announced today he would go to Columbus to attempt to arrange the hearing.

Litigation of the 1928 rate ordinance was stopped recently when the West Ohio announced it would refund $236,000 to 10,000 Lima consumers.

DEATHS ACCIDENTAL

TROY, Jan. 27—(UP)—Cecil Marshall, Miami-co coroner, today gave a verdict of accidental death in connection with the deaths of Emma Waski, 30, and Robert Murray, 34, Springfield, who were killed in an automobile accident here yesterday. Two other persons, William Boller, 22, Troy, and Ruth Grubbs, 27, Springfield, were injured.

Letters to Editor

As a resident of E. High-st and a tax-payer I feel that I have a perfect right to voice my opinion regarding the snow that is being hauled and dumped in mountains on the north side of the street.

The old cemetery is bad enough to contend with day after day, and year after year with no care except once a year—Decoration Day—and then just half cleaned.

We deserve and demand a little consideration, and would suggest to the party or parties responsible for same to dump it in front of their own homes or on Court or Main-st. Let's hear from other home-owners on E. High-st.

CHEESE, MUSHROOMS TAKE PLACE OF MEAT

By MRS. MARY MORTON

Menu Hint
Cheese Souffle with Mushrooms
Baked Potatoes
Buttered Broccoli
Carrot-Raisin Salad
Black Walnut Rolls
Coffee

This cheese souffle with mushrooms helps you to get away from the ever-present problem of serving a tasty meatless meal. Mushrooms creamed and served over toast make another good dish to take the place of meat. Try serving these black walnut rolls warm, for dessert sometime.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Cheese Souffle with Mushrooms—Three-fourths cup mushrooms, two tablespoons butter, three tablespoons flour, one-half cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, dash paprika, one-half cup grated American cheese, two tablespoons chopped parsley, three eggs. Chop mushrooms and saute in butter. Blend in flour and add milk slowly, stirring it in carefully. Add seasonings and cook, stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. Add cheese and parsley and stir until cheese is melted. Remove from fire, add egg yolks and cool. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a greased baking dish, bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, from 35 to 40 minutes until firm.

Black Walnut Rolls—Two cakes compressed yeast, one cup milk, scalded, cooled to lukewarm; four and three-fourths cups bread flour, one-fourth cup sugar, two eggs or four yolks, one teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup butter, one teaspoon cinnamon, six tablespoons butter for pan bottom, one cup black walnut meats, two cups brown sugar. Crumble yeast into a bowl, slowly add milk, stir to dissolve yeast and add sugar, beaten eggs, salt and flour (sifted) to milk mixture. Add softened butter and mix thoroughly. Knead on well floured board into a smooth dough. Place in a greased bowl.

cover and set in a warm place to rise at 80 degrees until dough has doubled in bulk, about an hour and a half. Knead down and let rise one hour. Roll until it is half an inch thick, then cover with two tablespoons butter and sprinkle with half a cup brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll as for jelly and cut in one-inch pieces. Butter a pan, dotting with second amount of butter and the remaining cup and a half brown sugar, and the black walnut meats. Place rolls cut side down in mixture. Let rise 25 minutes. Bake in 425-degree oven 30 minutes.

Amos Proves His Ability Andy Attends Party

Member of Team Takes All Parts; Question of Courtroom
Broadcasts Hit in St. Paul; President is Scheduled

Amos has long been the key-word of the radio stars known as Amos 'n Andy. Nearly everyone knows that both men take all the parts in their ever-popular program, but few know that Amos carried on the entire show on January 14 while Andy was in Peoria, Ill., attending a surprise birthday party for his father.

Amos did a mighty good job of jumping from his own part to that of the Kingfish and Brother Crawford then back again. How he kept mixing them is a mystery.

When the Kingfish asked for Andy, Amos replied, "He's delivering errands, he'll be back soon." Radio developments are largely American but one innovation of the British Broadcasting Corporation is, at last, being tried by an American network.

This is the issuance of a periodical containing a collection of speeches and talks recently broadcast over that particular web.

The American network's "digest of diversified interest broadcast," as the chain calls its publication, is a quarterly with possibility of its becoming a monthly. BBC's The Listener is a weekly of considerable circulation.

It is known that another American network recently contemplated issuance of a free magazine, probably along similar lines, but estimated costs were considered too prohibitive.

Should America's first network-owned and distributed magazine prove successful it is fairly certain other chains will enter the field.

Courtroom Broadcasts which not so long ago were something of a sensational innovation may not be so prevalent in the future if the action of a St. Paul judge is followed by other jurists.

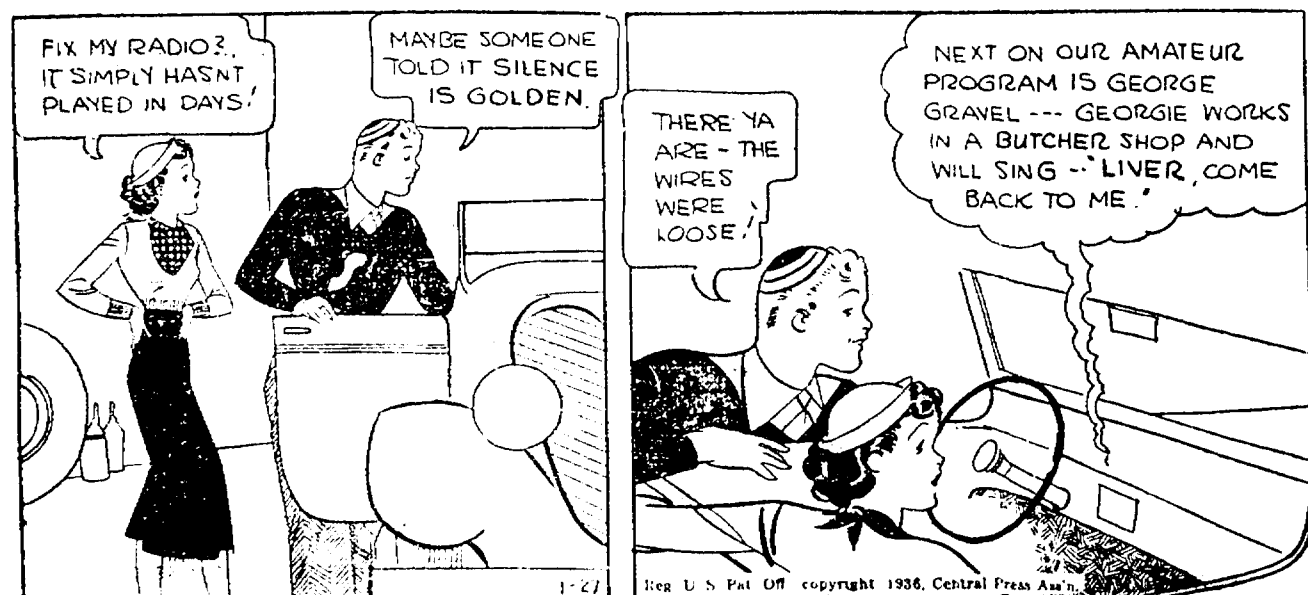

This judge in announcing discontinuance of the "Traffic Court of the Air" expressed the belief that though the broadcasts did have good results the one year in which he and his court were on the air was sufficient.

It is quite possible that this judge is correct in his view and that, after a fairly long period, even traffic court proceedings no longer interest or have significance to the average listener with his insatiable appetite for variety in air programs.

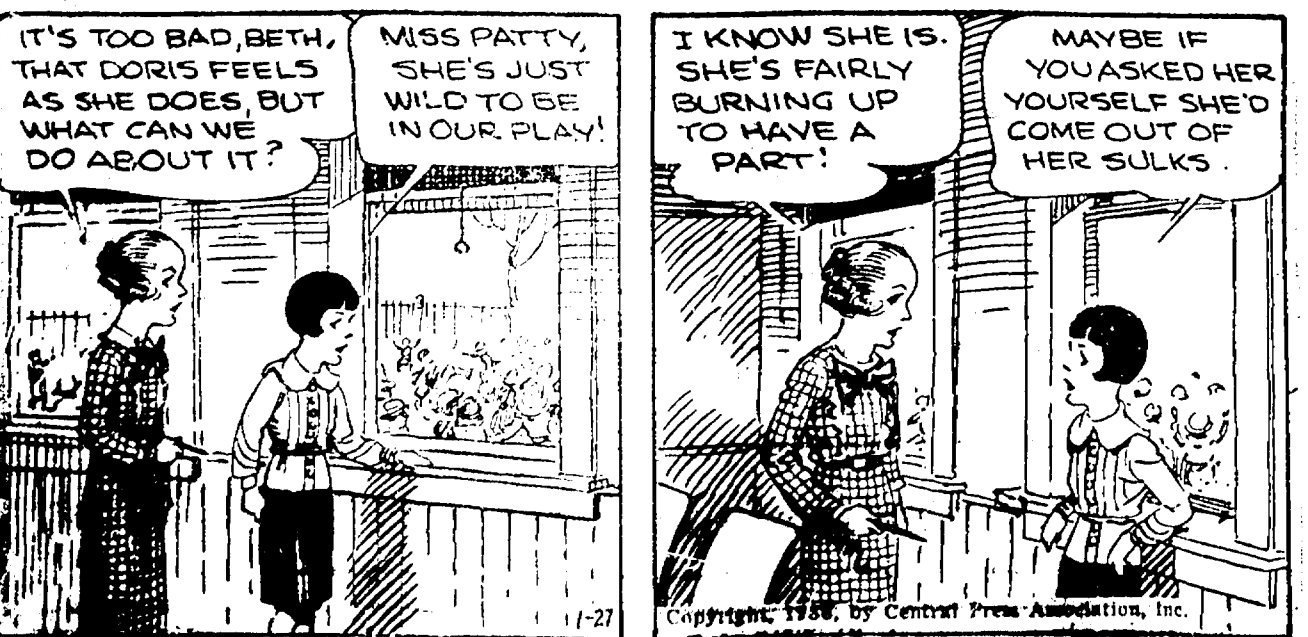

NOTES — President Roosevelt will be on the air again Saturday, Feb. 8, 6:45 p. m. This time he will be talking on a Boy Scout jubilee program. Ed Wynn will soon be wise-cracking in behalf of a popular priced automobile. That's not such a jump, Ed, from gas to gas buggies. The winter Olympic games will be re-broadcast in America. The games are scheduled for Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, Feb. 6-16. Have you noticed that the Showboat (Thursday) program is changing its theme song?

ON STATE JOBS WIN CLEAN BILL

Big Ten Committee, Headed By Griffith, Approves All Who Worked

CHICAGO, Jan. 27—(UP)—Part time state jobs for Big Ten football players were approved today by the conference committee on rule infractions.

Official sanction was contained in the committee's report on its investigation of charges involving fifteen Ohio State athletes.

"We find no evidence that either the Ohio State athletic department or other university officials were, in any way, instrumental in securing the appointment to these jobs," the committee said.

The committee is composed of Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of Big Ten athletics; Prof. A. C. Callen of Illinois and Prof. W. J. Moenkhaus of Indiana.

After Davey's Charge

The investigation was asked by the Ohio State athletic board last October after Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio startled the athletic world by reporting:

"We have done everything we can to help the Ohio State team and have most of the football squad on the state payroll."

Major Griffith collected the evidence and reported his findings to Callen and Moenkhaus.

The evidence he reported: (All figures from Nov. 1, 1934, to Nov. 1, 1935)

1. John Bettridge, Toledo, O., employed as page at three dollars per day. Earned four hundred dollars.

The investigation centered about the following athletes: John Bettridge, Roxi Belli, Frank Boucher, Sam Busch, Warren Christinger, Frank Cusimsky, Vic Dorris, Tippy Dye, Frank Fisch, Charles Hamrick, Gomer Jones, John Kabealo, Tom Monahan, Richard Ward, and Gus Zarnas.

Concluding his report, Griffith said:

After a careful investigation and close study of the evidence secured, it seems clear, first, that the fifteen Ohio State university football men who were employed by the state of Ohio from Nov. 1, 1934 to Nov. 1, 1935, secured their appointments on their own initiative and through the help of personal friends; second, that they were paid at the same rate as others who were not engaged in athletics; third, that there was no proportion in the amount of jobs held by athletes; and fourth, that their work was so arranged as not to interfere with their university tasks."

AL GORDON, RACE DRIVER, KILLED IN TRACK CRASH

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27—(UP)—Al Gordon of Long Beach, Cal., nationally known auto pilot, was killed yesterday and William Matlock, his riding mechanic, was critically injured when their car tumbled over a retaining wall during the running of a 200-lap race at Ascot auto speedway.

The accident occurred as Gordon's car hit the south turn on the 27th lap. The blue and white speedster suddenly went into a sharp spin, rocketed over the low retaining wall and whizzed down a steep embankment.

About This And That In Many Sports

Countdown Victories

Pickaway-oo youth at Ohio State university were going great guns—The county club's cage team defeated Ashtabula, 29-6, for its second victory—On the county team were Tom Kirwin, Floyd Graves, Charles Gulick, Joe Wright, Jim Scoles, Ray French, Wells Wilson, Maos Brown, Harbie Hoover, and Ross Dodd.

Neither Gene Briggs nor Ralph Dunkel were on hand. Gulick was high point man with nine counters.

Wright Meets Waltz

Joe Wright, Pickaway-twp, is scheduled to fight Bob Waltz of Cleveland in the semi-finals of the 136-pound class "A" boxing tournament—Mace, Brown, also of Pickaway, failed to make the weight for the lightweight wrestling tourney so goes the heavy-weight division.

Go to Westerville

Red and Black cagers travel to Westerville for a test Friday evening in the CBL—There's only one thing to it, if the Tigers are "on" they'll win; if they're "off" they'll lose.

Bad News Bought

During the winter, little Arvell Odell (Bad News) Hale, third baseman of the Cleveland Indians, was very much on the market. But, not now!

Therein lies a chapter in the baseball education of Cleveland Magnate Alva Bradley (who once had his picture taken in baseball uniform with Senator Huey Long). Until this winter, Bad News was regarded by Owner Bradley as just a fellow filling in at third base until a good third baseman came along.

Placed on the market, Hale was found to be in demand by nearly every club in the American league, and Mr. Bradley took him off the market just like that. The Cleveland magnate discovered that Bad News was regarded as one of the great young players of the games.

Magnate Bradley explains his indifference to Hale by the fact that he had been "too close" to Hale to realize his worth. Life is like that, eh wot?

DETROIT DEFEATS GREEN BAY TEAM IN 10-3 CONTEST

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 27—(UP)—A dash through tackle by Ace Gutowsky yesterday enabled the Detroit Lions, national pro football champions, to defeat the Green Bay Packers, 10 to 3, in an exhibition game at Glendale stadium.

Ernie Caddell, Lion halfback, intercepted a Packer pass on his own 16 yard line midway in the third period and on the next play Gutowsky broke through tackle and ran to a touchdown. Clark converted the extra point.

The Packers held a three point lead at the end of the first half as a result of Schwammel's field goal from the Lion 23-yard stripe in the second quarter. Schwammel tried the field goal after line plays failed to gain.

In the final session Clark clinched the victory for the Lions by a dropkick over the goalposts from the 18-yard line.

FRANCIS URGES AID FOR BIRDS

Feed Needed to Preserve County's Splendid Crop

Sportsmen of the county were urged Monday by Clarence Francis, game protector, to distribute grain in windbreaks for pheasants, quail and other birds.

During the severe weather Mr. Francis has made daily trips to game preserves and other sections of the county distributing feed. Many districts could not be reached because of drifted roads.

He reported finding a number of dead quail on his trips. Many were frozen standing. Due to the heavy snow the birds can find no feed. A flock of 27 pheasants are regular patrons at one feeding shelter on the Ruggles land in Pickaway-twp, he reported.

Pheasants withstand the severe weather much better than quail, he explained. They huddle together in brush heaps, and even seek refuge in open tiles and groundhog dens. The quail are usually found along fences where they have little protection from the near zero temperatures.

OWENS IS 'TOPS' ON TRACK TEAM

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(UP)—Jesse Owens, Ohio State's broad jumper, hurdler and broad jumper, occupied the position of the Nation's No. 1 track star today, having won three places on the All-America track and field team.

Despite the fact that Eulace Peacock, Temple negro, beat Owens in the 100 meters and broad jump in the National A. A. U. championships, the Ohio State athlete was picked by Dan Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U. for the 200 meter dash, 200 meter hurdles and broad jump on the annual team he selected for Spalding Athletic gladiators.

Eastern athletes dominated the team, winning 18 of the 25 places. Note went to the midwest, six to the far west and two to the south.

GOGGIN, HUNTER MEET IN WESTERN TOURNEY

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27—(UP)—Willie Goggin, youthful San Francisco professional, met Willie Hunter, Los Angeles veteran, today in a 36-hole playoff for the national match play open golf championship and $1,675 first prize money.

Hunter entered the finals of the three-day tournament with a spectacular home stretch drive which gave him a one-up victory over Craig Wood, Deal, N. J., after a 19-hole semi-final contest.

Goggin, playing spectacularly, won a 3 and 2 victory over Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, in the other semi-final event.

STARK, ACE OF UMPIRES, QUITS; MAY BE MANAGER

NEW YORK, Jan. 27—(UP)—Dolly Stark, recently named by National League players as the most popular and efficient umpire

THREE SCHOOLS HIT COURT SITE

Southwestern Highs Fight Against Dayton Coliseum

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 27—(UP)—Dissatisfaction and the threat of withdrawal from tournament play which came a year ago from scholastic basketball teams in Northeastern Ohio today was heard from the southwestern section of the state.

The bitterest dispute in the 11 year history of the Ohio High School Athletic Association arose last March when two Akron schools, North and West, drew each other in the first round of the state tournament.

It marked the second straight year Akron schools had met in the first round and it resulted in vigorous protests and threats of withdrawal.

The dispute was finally settled and North went on to win the scholastic championship. However, the protest of schools from the Northeastern district was instrumental in bringing about a revision in the tournament plan and the decision to use a selective draw for the first round of the state meet.

With the Northeastern district at peace, three southwestern Ohio schools, Middletown, Hamilton and Springfield, have brought on another war and have issued an ultimatum they will not compete if the district tournament for major Class "A" schools is held at the Coliseum at Dayton.

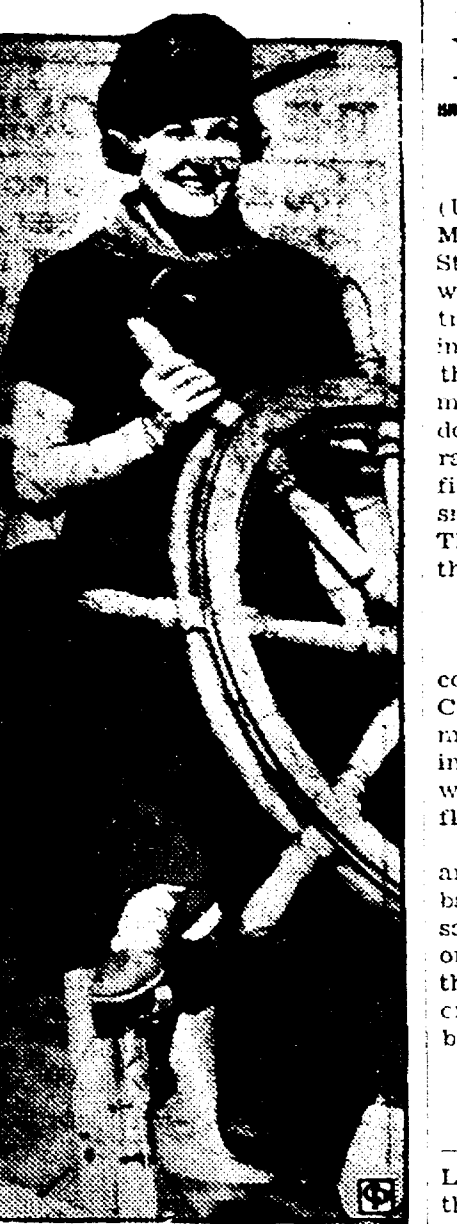

Middletown and Hamilton seek to move the tournament to Miami university, Oxford, and Springfield wants it at Wittenberg college. However, the three have agreed to play at Dayton if a site other than the Coliseum, scene of the tournament for many years, is used.

In that league, has resigned, it was learned today.

Stark may give up baseball entirely but reports persist that efforts are being made to have him take over the business manager's job with the Brooklyn Dodgers, a position held last year by Bob Quinn, now head of the Boston Braves.

Lee Ballafant of the Texas league is understood to have been signed to replace Stark. In addition to umpiring, Stark coaches the Dartmouth basketball team in the winter. His salary from both jobs is said to be about $15,000 a year.

Commodore

CHOSEN honorary commodore of the mid-winter sailing regatta, Feb. 12 to 16, at Los Angeles, Miss Jane Pond, socialite, is pictured at the wheel. Olympic games eliminations for certain classes of Craft, will be held.

It is believed, however, that the dry leaders who predict that prohibition will be back soon are still buying theirs instead of making it.

Oddities in Nation's News

COMPLAINTS LUCKY

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 27—(UP)—Motorists complained to Motorcycle Patrolman James Stapleton that some prankster with a mirror was endangering traffic by flashing glaring light into drivers' eyes. Stapleton found that the glare was from a six-inch magnifying glass in a store window. He found more. The sun's rays through the glass had set fire to window draperies that were smoldering on the verge of flame. The fire company he called kept the fire confined to the window.

ORDER IS TOO MUCH

CHICAGO, Jan. 27—(UP)—The commissioners of the District of Columbia amazed a Chicago piano manufacturing concern by ordering a portable organ 32 feet high with a keyboard 30 feet from the floor and weighing only 60 pounds.

"It's so silly we won't even answer the letter," Wallace Kimball, an official of the company, said. "The empty case of such an organ would weigh so much that three men couldn't carry it. The order goes right in the waste basket."

MAYOR TO LEAD RAID

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27—(UP)—The robbery of a bookie joint in Linndale was just one more thing that no one reported to Mrs. Ann C. Lakawitz, reform mayor of the railroad suburb. One hundred customers lost $600. Now Mayor Lakawitz plans to lead a raid on the place personally.

HISTORIANS ELECTED

CHILLICOTHE, Jan. 27—Officers of the Ross-co Historical society have been re-elected for another year. They are: Earl H. Barnhart, president; Miss Martha Sproat and J. Herbert Mattix, vice presidents; Miss Virginia Perrin, secretary, and E. L. Spetnagel, treasurer.

THEATRE

AT THE CLIFTONA

Truly magnificent in its spectacular sweep, yet absorbing in its delightful intimacy, "Two Cities," starring Ronald Colman, opened a limited engagement yesterday at the Cliftona Theatre.

It takes its place among the immortals; works of the screen, entertainment which cannot be praised too highly. It is a play that no man, woman or child can afford to miss.

Ronald Colman's fans will find him at his best. He never has had a role which gave him such opportunity for the quiet humor, the high drama and the poignancy he expresses so well. As Sydney Carton, whimsical, sardonic, brilliant waster, he reaches the peak of his artistic career.

AT THE GRAND

What is said to be the longest continuous dialogue film scene ever recorded was played by Bette Davis and George Brent in "Special Agent," The Cosmopolitan production now showing at the Grand Theatre, as a Warner Bros. release.

The scene, played at a cafe table, is six full script pages and runs four and a half minutes, requiring 405 feet of film.

Neither of the two players missed a cue or a line.

GAMBLER FOUND DEAD

CLEVELAND, Jan. 27—(UP)—The body of William Wiggins, 34, negro, an alleged policy writer, was found in a ditch near here today. Wiggins' body had several bullet wounds in it. Cleveland detectives believed gambling was responsible for his death.

Keogan Gives Gopher Play

In this play, used by Minnesota, No. 5 has the ball and passes to No. 1, who is breaking out toward the center of the floor. No. 5 then cuts around No. 1 who fakes a feed to No. 5. No. 4 follows closely behind No. 5. No. 1 feeds to No. 4, who dribbles and shoots. No. 2 follows up at center, and No. 5 follows in from the right. Nos. 1 and 3 drop back to guard.

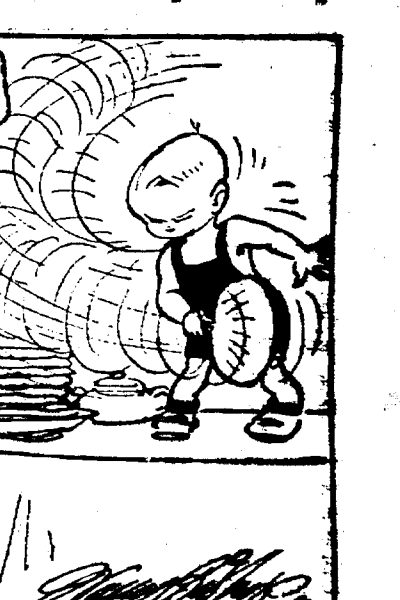

By GEORGE E. KEOGAN
Notre Dame Basketball Coach

MINNESOTA, coached by Dave MacMillan, has produced some very good basketball teams. While the material at Minnesota never has been exceptionally good, the teams always give a very good account of themselves.

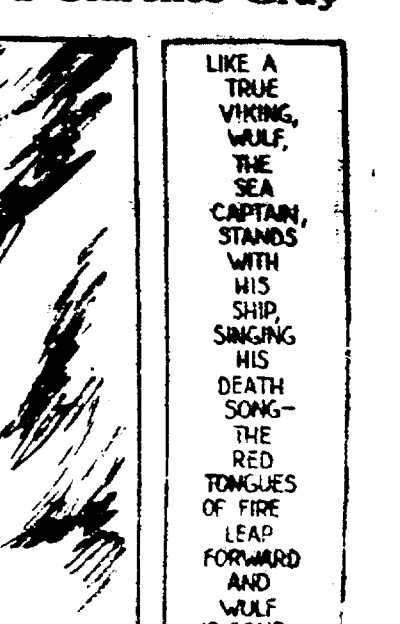

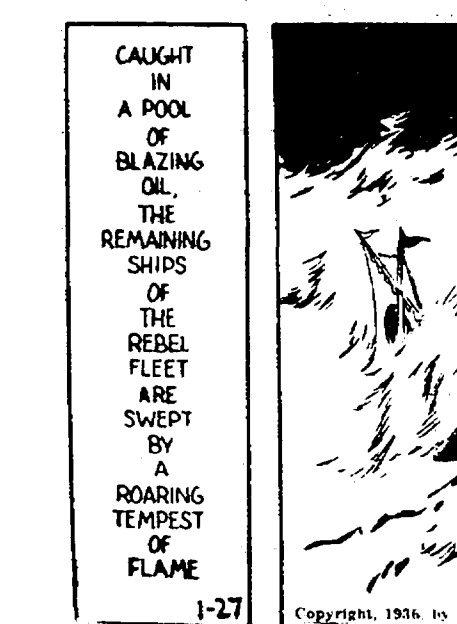

They are well coached, and plays such as that diagramed are typical of Minnesota basketball.

I don't think Minnesota will go far in the Big Ten this year. The Gophers started poorly, but one never can tell—they may finish like a whirlwind. No matter where they finish, when you play them you always get a ball game.

several degrees Sunday suffered with the hard-hit midwest. The 6-below Sunday reading at Albany, N. Y., was expected to be duplicated today.

Niagara Frozen Solid
For the third successive day Niagara Falls was frozen solid with the flow of water stopped by ice jams in the river.

Light snow was falling in New York city early today with the temperature at 19 degrees above zero.

Transcontinental trains were running from 15 minutes to two hours behind schedules. Air lines reported they were unaffected by the weather.

Wild life throughout the midwest suffered from lack of food. Farmers were using up their supplies of forage crops to care for stock.

Heavy snows of the past week were a boom to farmers, however, saving winter crops from freezing and storing up moisture for spring planting.

Meanwhile, at Miami, Fla., beaches were crowded with the temperature at 76 degrees in the shade, and southern California looked forward to a break in a period of unseasonably warm weather that sent the mercury high.

RECIPES

Scalloped Oysters.

Four cups fine soft bread crumbs; one fourth teaspoon salt; one eighth teaspoon of pepper; one eighth teaspoon of paprika; one half cup melted butter; one pint bluepoint oysters, drained; one third third cup oyster liquor; half cup top milk.

Combine bread, crumbs, salt, pepper, and paprika. Add butter tossing lightly to mix well. Sprinkle one third of crumbs in bottom of greased baking dish. Arrange one half of oysters on crumbs. Sprinkle second third of crumbs over oysters. Add remaining oysters. Combine oyster liquor and milk and pour over oysters. Top with remaining crumbs and sprinkle lightly with paprika. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees F.) thirty minutes. Serves eight.

Fruit Tarts For Tea Time

One cup shortening; two teaspoons baking powder; five egg yolks; two cups flour; three fourths cup sugar; grated rind of one lemon; a little salt; fresh fruit, or cooked fruit such as berries, apricots, cherries. Sift the flour with the salt and baking powder into a bowl. Make a hole in the center of the flour and put the shortening and sugar in this. Work lightly with the fingers until the mixture is well blended. Then add the egg yolks and the grated rind and mix the dough until it forms a ball. Work it just enough to make this ball, no more. Chill the dough in the refrigerator. Roll out thin and line small tins or baking dishes with it. Bake in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F., until golden brown. Cool and fill one third full of custard. Then cover this with macaroon crumbs. Fill to edge of shell with any cooked fruit. Serve with a rosette of custard on top; or a dab of whipped cream.

Almond Cakes

One half cup shortening; four eggs; one and one half cups flour; one and one half teaspoons baking powder; one cup sugar; one cup blanched almonds; one teaspoon almond flavoring.

Blend the shortening and sugar; Add eggs, one at a time, and beat well between the additions. Add flour, sifted with baking powder, chopped nuts and flavoring. Bake in small tins, in a moderate oven 375 degrees F., for twelve to fifteen minutes. Ice with chocolate or coffee flavored icing and decorate with a whole almond kernel.

Old Fashioned Potato Egg Salad For Buffet Suppers
Three cups cold boiled potatoes; one cup cooked or canned green peas; four hard cooked eggs; one onion; fresh tomatoes; mayonnaise. Chill the potatoes, cut in small cubes, and mix lightly with sliced hard cooked eggs. Add the onion chopped fine, also add peas. Toss together in a little French dressing and let stand an hour in the refrigerator. Drain. Add enough mayonnaise to coat well. Pile in a lettuce lined salad bowl and garnish with sections of ripe tomato. Use celery in place of the peas for another version of this favorite salad.

Chicken Mousse

Another buffet supper dish is chicken mousse.
Four cups chicken aspic; sliced meat of one large cooked chicken; about one cup cooked carrots; one cup cooked peas; small slices of green pepper; Mayonnaise.

Cover the bottom of a ring mold with one inch of aspic. When partly set decorate with strips of green pepper. Cover these with a thin layer of aspic. On this arrange the carrots cut in fancy shapes and the cooked peas. Lay slices of the chicken around on these, setting each layer with a thin layer of aspic. Fill to top with aspic. Let congeal. Unmold on a base of lettuce. Garnish with chutney and mayonnaise.

Sausage and Pancakes

A New Way

Five large pancakes; butter; one fourth pound cooked sausage meat; three tablespoons maple cream; three tablespoons chopped cooked bacon; three tablespoons apple jelly.

Spread each cake with butter. Cover first pancake with sausage (made into flat patty the size of pancake). Cover with second pancake. Spread with maple cream. Cover third pancake with bacon—fourth with apple jelly. When served cut in pie shaped pieces. Serves very hot. Enough for six.

Frankfurters Stuffed

Twelve frankfurters; three fourths cup chopped tart apples; twelve narrow strips bacon; wooden picks.

Place frankfurters in cold water. Bring to boiling and remove. Cut frankfurters in two lengthwise. Fill each frankfurter, sandwich-style, with chopped apple. Wrap one strip of bacon around each frankfurter, securing each end

LAMSON TO FACE
JURORS FOURTH
TIME IN DEATH

Stanford College Man on Trial in Bathub Death of Co-Ed Wife

SAN JOSE, Cal., Jan. 27.—(UP)—David A. Lamson, once sentenced to death as the convicted slayer of his dark-eyed, esthetic young wife, faced prosecution on the charge a fourth time today in Santa Clara county's red-roofed courthouse.

Superior Judge J. J. Trabucco of Mariposa-co remained as presiding jurist in the case, which he entered when Superior Judge Robert R. Syer of San Jose disqualified himself following the second trial in compliance with defense demands.

A venire of 250 names was ready for use if needed in selecting the jury which will hear details of the mysterious death of Allene Thorpe Lamson, former Stanford coed and University Y. W. C. A. secretary, found dead in the bathtub of the Lamsons' vine-covered campus cottage Memorial day, 1933.

Allene's skull had been fractured and her body reclined over the edge of the tub when her husband, entering the house to admit prospective tenants, discovered her dead.

Since that day nearly three years ago, Lamson has remained imprisoned, awaiting final adjudication of his guilt or innocence.

His first trial jury declared him guilty and Judge Syer sentenced him to death on San Quentin's gallows. After spending nearly a year on the prison "condemned row," Lamson was granted a retrial motion by the State Supreme Court, which held evidence was not sufficient to sustain the conviction and judgment.

His second trial ended in a jury deadlock, with the majority favoring conviction.

A third trial which began before Judge Trabucco ended in a mistrial.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Game for Party

An Eatless Dinner: To play an Eatless Dinner, everyone sits around a table, alternating a man and a girl. Each girl has a paper and pencil. At the signal the men start the game. Each one whispers to the girl on his right the names of as many foods as he can think of beginning with the letter A. The girl quickly writes these on the paper which she has for the purpose. At the end of one minute the signal to change is given and the men rise and progress to the seat ahead. Here they dictate to the new partner the names of foods beginning with B. This continues, each time using a new letter, until the men have returned to their original places. The girls then count up the number of articles of food which they have, and the girl with the highest number is the winner. It is hardly fair to give all the credit to the girl, but the winning girl may name the man who contributed the most articles of food to her list.

Stone, 30-year-old paroled convict, behind the walls of Folsom prison at Folsom City, Cal., to guard against possible mob violence while they moved for swift judgment on his alleged confession that he fatally shot Mary Stammer, 14, last November at Fresno. The Stammer girl, daughter of an attorney, was found mysteriously shot to death in her home.
